NEW FRENCH WAR CABINET

Reynaud Picks Daladier Among 'Victory Big 5'

PARIS, March 21 (AP)—Energetic Paul Reynaud today formally took the helm of the French government as premier and foreign minister in a broadened "win-the-war" coalition cabinet drawn from the Socialists on the left to groups of the right.

Edouard Daladier, whom Reynaud succeeds as premier, stayed in the new ministry as minister of national defense. Reynaud's former portfolio in the finance ministry went to Lucien Lamoureux.

Reynaud and five other ministers constitute the inner war cabinet.

FRANCE'S "BIG FIVE"

The five are: Daladier; Camille Chautemps, vice-Premier; Cesar Campinchi, Navy Minister; Senator Laurent Eynac, Air Minister, and Raoul Dautry, armament.

Reynaud also set up a "war committee" composed of himself, Chautemps, Daladier, Colonial Minister Georges Mandel and Finance Minister Lamoureux.

A separate "economic council" also was established, similar to Britain's ministerial economic warfare group. Members include Lamoureux and all ministers whose duties are concerned with national economy.

Reynaud called his first Cabinet meeting for tomorrow morning, to be followed by a council of ministers — the Cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun.

PERSONNEL OF CABINET

These sessions will be followed by governmental declarations before the two Chambers of Parliament.

Others in the new cabinet are Henri Roy, interior; Louis Rollin, commerce; Albert Serol, justice; Lucien Lamoreux, finance; Georges Mandel, colonies; Albert Sarraut, public instruction; Henri Quequille, provisions, Paul Theillier, agriculture; Georges Monnet, blockade; Anatole de Monzie, public works; Charles Pomaret, labor; Jules Julien, communications; Louis Frossard, information; Alphonse Rio, merchant marine; Marcel Heraud, SABOTAGED—Sinking into the mud of Baltimore harbor is the 27,000-ton cargo liner Panamanian, owned by Hitler-jailed Arnold Bernstein, Jewish shipping magnate. The ship began leaking through a mysterious hole early this morning, settling to the bottom.

Queen Mary Sails South At 28 Knots

BULLETIN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., March 21 (AP)—The British luxury liner Queen Mary was sighted five miles offshore today. Coast Guard observers said she was steering a southerly "Bermuda" course and was proceeding at 28 knots an hour. A haze made the ship barely visible.

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Two of the proudest liners of the British merchant fleet ploughed uncertain waters today in a gamble with wartime hazards of the high seas.

Slightly more than 12 hours after the 35,739-ton Mauretania slipped out through a misty rain from the pier where she had been tied up for three months the giant Queen Mary nosed out into the sunlit Hudson and passed down the bay.

The destination of the two liners was known only to their commanders, who sailed under sealed orders, not to be opened until they were well at sea, but presumably sending them on dangerous missons as troop-ships between Australia and the Near East.

Another report had one or both ships bound for Halifax with a possible stop at Boston on the way.

As the Queen Mary was being pushed away from her pier by puff-

FARLEY, BACKERS IN PARLEY HERE

By JAMES F. McENANEY

For the first time since he became a presidential candidate, Postmaster-General James A. Farley conferred in Boston today with top-flight Massachusetts Democratic leaders regarding the campaign.

The postmaster-general started the day by attending 7 a. m. mass in Our Lady of Victory Church, Isabella st., with Postmaster Peter F. Tague of Boston and Farley's daughter Betty, who came here last night with him from Wellesley College, where she is a student.

Afterwards the group had breakfast at the Hotel Statler with William H. Burke, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, then Betty went back to school and the others adjourned to Farley's suite in the hotel for the day of conferences.

In a press conference, Farley said he had nothing to add to his Springfield statement of yesterday, when he declared he was in the presidential fight to the end—come what may.

Late next week, he said, he will begin a swing through Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Georgia and North Carolina, principally to attend postmasters' conventions, "withf a little politics on the side."

"Do you favor a third term for President Roosevelt?" one reporter asked.

Not a bit startled, Farley replied:

"I don't care to comment."

He also parried a question as to whether he thought we would have a depression if a Republican ad-

Find Big Ship Sinking at Pier

BALTIMORE, March 21 (INS)—Fears that a badly-flooded 27,000-ton cargo ship, the Panamanian, might sink at her pier were alleviated today when Fred Kipp, Baltimore harbor engineer, announced the stern was resting on bottom and the vessel probably could be righted.

Slated to sail tonight, the ship early today began to sink, her engine rooms flooded by water which had mysteriously poured in through her side in the night.

Kipp asserted that cause of the flooding could not be determined until divers had been sent below. After an inspection trip around the vessel and questioning crew members, Kipp said the ship either had a mysterious hole in her side, or a valve or port hole below the water line had been inadvertently opened by one of the Filipino crew.

The ship, one of the largest cargo vessels in the world, is owned by Arnold Bernstein, Jewish shipping magnate who was imprisoned for wo years by Chancellor Hitler after Germany had confiscated all his vessels.

Although sabotage rumors spread over the waterfront, Kipp said they could neither be confirmed nor denied until the divers had determined the cause and stopped the leak.

The Panamanian fired the first American shot in the World War, a blast that sent a German U-boat to the bottom. She was called the Mongolia then and as a troopship carried more than 25,000 American soldiers from Hoboken to France.

BLAST—Making way for new $4,300,000 War Department building in Washington, D. C., this beautiful $2,000,000 apartment house falls prey to largest dynamiting destruction of a building ever undertaken in this country.

Prospective Quins' Mother in Hospital

MIAMI, Fla., March 21—Blonde, slender Mrs. Emory Callahan, 22, who is expected to become the mother of quintuplets in May, today was in a Miami hospital to await the astounding event.

FROM SHADOW OF DEATH

PROMPT action of relatives saved life of 2-year-old Carol Lynn Hart, shown here, when she swallowed metal spring in Belmont home. She stopped breathing on way to hospital, but doctor and police sergeant used artificial respiration to keep her alive. She's out of danger.

Mrs. Callahan was taken from the small bungalow which she and her husband share with two other couples to the hospital last night.

It was learned today that she had spent a somewhat restless night, due to the strange surroundings.

The young woman, who eloped less than a year ago with a struggling mechanic and who thinks 12 children would compose the ideal family, had received no special care until X-rays revealed that she probably would become the mother of, not one, but five babies at once.

Today she was not a willing patient at the hospital. Her physician, Dr. Arthur W. Wood, who earlier confirmed that X-ray photographs apparently showed five distinct heads of unborn babies, had to persuade her that a period of rest was necessary.

"I'm not sick," she asserted, and demanded to be permitted to join her husband.

Today the Miami Herald, whose owner, John S. Knight, placed the Callahans under contract for exclusive publication rights of photographs and news, planned to lease a new home for them where nursing and medical attention would be constantly available.

The Herald's agreement provided the prospective mother with an undisclosed sum of money, the services of Dr. Wood and specialists if the physician desires to call them, and all hospital expenses, including nurses, as well as income from news and pictures.

BABIES DUE MAY 20

Normally, the babies would be born May 20. Medical men pointed out, however, that multiple births usually are premature. The mother, a small, brown-haired, blue-eyed woman, has gained 20 pounds in recent months. She weighs 128 now, but her condition was declared to be excellent.

The husband's father, Thomas C. Callahan of Thomasville, Ga., was a twin, but no other multiple births have been recorded in the family.

The couple came to Miami in October, 1939, from Thomasville.

With his wife in the hospital, the husband, who is elated over the prospect of quintuplets, went back to his $15-a-week job as apprentice planesman in a Miami furniture factory. Callahan admitted he had

2 Kidnap, Rob R. I. Store Official Here

Two gunmen held up and kidnaped a Providence chain store executive near North Station today, then took him on a 50-mile crime tour and robbed a Framingham filling station before they left him, tied up in the rear of his car, in Causeway st., North End.

The victim, Raymond J. Walsh, 32, of Carrington ave., Providence, was found struggling on the back seat of his auto by a milkman, who called police. The officers freed Walsh's arms and legs of tape bindings and removed a gag from his mouth.

Walsh said he had just left a meeting of chain store officials and was entering his car when two bandits, both armed, overpowered him.

"First they made me drive to a nearby gas station and buy a dollar's worth of fuel," he told police.

ROB STORE OF CASH

"They told me to say nothing and pushed a gun against my side. A few minutes later they forced me onto the floor in the back of the car and tied me with tape.

"We drove a long way . . . I heard them mention Rte Worcester pike' and not long after they stopped.

"The car jerked to a stop They told me not to make any noise and said a cop probably would be along and set me free some time."

As the pair left, they seized Walsh's wallet and registration papers, as well as $30 in cash.

Details of the Walsh kidnap matched circumstances of a Framingham gasoline station holdup, police said, during which Larry Phipps, 29, of Asaland, the attendant, was bound and gagged with tape.

BEAUTY SHOP HELD UP

Two gunmen, answering the description of the pair who held up Walsh, forced their way into the station, on Route 9 west of Framingham, and seized [illegible] from a cash register and public telephone box.

The holdups occurred only a few hours after two beauty parlor robberies in Dorchester.

Two beauticians, Marion Colossi and Mary Trifiro, and two customers, Mrs. Sadie Baum and Jane Kotwicka, both of Saranac st., Dorchester, were menaced by the bandits, who escaped with $14 from an Adams st. establishment.

In the second robbery, the pair seized $4 from Evelyn Nervish, Dorchester ave.

DANCER IN DEATH DIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21 (AP)—Beatrice Lewis, 37, a dancer, fell 350 feet to her death from a pinnacle overlooking the Pacific.

Her stepmother said she often went to the Sutro Heights to practice solo numbers.

HINTS AT GRAND JURY ACTION IN AUTO RISK QUIZ

Grand jury action may grow out of the legislative probe of the defunct Broad Street Mutual Insurance Co., it was asserted today by Sen. Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose, chairman of the special legislative committee.

At the same time, Rep. Carl A. Woekel of Methuen, a member of the inquisitory body, announced that he believes William J. Howard, president of the Broad Street Mutual, left Massachusetts for Nassau "for the express purpose of avoiding this investigation."

"I believe the same is true of John J. Walsh, who was general manager of one of the three companies of which Howard was president," Rep. Woekel declared.

With the next hearing of the committee scheduled for Wednesday, every effort to locate the two missing men was being exerted.

HINTS AT JURY ACTION

If they are located, Sen. Goodwin said, an attempt will be made to bring both of them back here. Goodwin added significantly:

"While the committee has no power to extradite these men as things stand now, we are going to summons all the books and papers of the Broad Street Mutual in an effort to trace the financial transactions, some of which seem unexplainable at present.

"It may be that as a result of the examination of those books and papers this matter might finally reach the grand jury."

The books and papers, according to Chairman Goodwin, are now in the hands of Atty. John Noonan, as receiver of the company.

BLAMES BAD RISKS

George J. Philpott of Roslindale, treasurer of the Broad St. Co., and Walter Spence of West Roxbury, a director, testified that in their opinion the chief reason for the failure of the company was bad risks.

This brought an outburst by Rep. Woekel during the testimony of Spence.

"Something was rotten in this company," Rep. Woekel declared. "Don't be trying to put the blame on the appeal board of the policy holders. It seems to me that the work was on the inside, and the failure of the company was due to what went on inside the company, and not to the policy holders who have been taking it on the chin in Massachusetts for many years."

Asked if he knew where Howard was, Spence replied, "I think he is in a sanitarium in Florida."

Walter G. Smith of Roslindale, a director, testified he was also inspector of auto equipment for the Broad Street Co., and although the directors voted him a $5000 yearly salary, he had received only $800.

Shown by the commission two slips bearing the signatures "W. Smith," showing payments of $96 per week for a year, or a total of $5000, the witness said he signed

Jimmy to Wed Nurse After Final Decree

NEW YORK, March 21—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, plans to marry Romelle Schneider, his former nurse, as soon as it is legally possible, he admitted to the New York Daily Mirror.

ROMELLE SCHNEIDER
Jimmy's Next?

It is expected a final divorce decree will be awarded his wife, Betsey Cushing Roosevelt, daughter of the late Dr. Harvey G. Cushing of Brookline, Mass., next March.

The Mirror reporter put the following question to Roosevelt:

"Will you wait the year out before marrying Miss Schneider?"

His answer was: "I will have to do that I guess."

When it was suggested that "sometimes impatient lovers seek a Mexican judge, or manage to juggle laws so that a valid marriage can be effected in another state," Roosevelt observed:

"I'm not a good juggler."

As for Miss Schneider, he added:

"The last time I saw her, she was in Los Angeles."

Under terms of a settlement agreement between Roosevelt and his wife, Mrs. Roosevelt will receive full custody of the couple's two small children.

2 Hurt in Crash, Driver Is Held

Given a lift in an allegedly stolen auto, a 26-year-old Reading mechanic was critically injured today when the car skidded into a tree at Salem and Spring sts., Reading.

The victim, Gilbert Hall, High st., Reading, was taken to Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn, where doctors said he had a fractured skull.

Arrested as alleged operator of the auto was Austin Rivers, 26, who gave an address in Holden st., Malden. Police claim Rivers is actually a resident of Winthrop.

The auto was allegedly stolen from Pembrook's garage, Union st., Malden.

Judge Elbridge G. Davis held Rivers in $2000 bail in Malden court when Rivers pleaded guilty to charges of taking the car.

WILD BIRDS, BEASTS WANTED FOR HUB ZOO

There are empty cages in the old corral out at the Franklin Park zoo. So today Park Commissioner William P. Long and Zoo Curator Dan Harkins appealed to Boston animal lovers to donate wild birds or beasts—or the money to buy them!

Long said there are only 250 animals at the zoo now, as compared with 410 in 1936.

The zoo population has been steadily declining since depressions drains on the city treasury have cut appropriations for new purchases. It is estimated that 20,000 persons a day visit the zoo in summertime.

Woman Raid Victim Held as Fugitive

Blonde Frances Emma Preble Bickford, 38, was held for New Jersey authorities in Boston Municipal Court today.

Mrs. Bickford, whose romantic affairs have interested police departments in two states, waived examination on a fugitive from justice warrant.

Inspector William Philbrick of Boston police headquarters asked Judge Daniel Gillen to continue the case until tomorrow morning to give New Jersey officers time to get to Boston and Judge Gillen agreed.

The Newark, N. J., officers represented the latest development in the affair of Mrs. Bickford and Richard Engel, Jr., son of a Quincy restaurant owner.

The couple were taken into custody when Boston and Wellesley officers, led by the elder Engel, found them with two other men in a lonely Wellesley farmhouse.

Mrs. Bickford was held over night at the Women's House of Detention in Boston for the Newark authorities. The New Jersey officers were reported to hold a warrant charging her with abandonment of five children.

One of the children was with her mother at the time of last night's raid, police said. Identified as Emma Milligan, 5, the girl was entrusted by police to the care of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Six months ago, young Engel and Mrs. Bickford, who is also known as Miss Emma Preble, were prevented from marrying when the youth's father won a temporary injunction restraining them from obtaining a license in Massachusetts.

Last November Miss Preble was found guilty in municipal court of serious charges involving William S. Milligan, 50, of Columbus ave., South End. Both were given three-month suspended sentences.

Miss Preble, according to police, has been living in the house on a farm at Moss's Pond, Russell rd., Wellesley, where she has been employed as a maid by John Stockbridge, 60-year-old bachelor farmer.

On the former occasion when Engle used extraordinary measures to stall the three-year romance of his son and the pretty cashier, Engle identified himself as his son's "spendthrift guardian."

Indian Killer Says 'It's Duty'

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—A 37-year-old British Indian engineer, Udham Singh, alias Mahomed Singh Azad, was returned to court today for further examination on a charge of murdering Sir Michael O'Dwyer, retired Indian administrator.

Prosecutor Evans read a statement attributed to the prisoner, as follows:

"I shoot like I think, at the wall. I just shot to make a protest—not to kill. I do not mind what sentence—10, 15 or 20 years or to be hanged. I did my duty."

Udham Singh was arrested March 13 after four pistol shots were fired at a meeting of the East India Ass'n where O'Dwyer had just finished speaking. Sir Michael was former lieutenant-governor of the Punjab when, April 13, 1919, British troops fire on a mob at Amritsar, killing 400 persons.

After testimony by several eyewitnesses of the shooting, the hearing was adjourned until April 1.

Dies Probers Call Five Hub 'Fronters'

Five persons allegedly connected with the Boston branch of the so-called Christian Front were subpoenaed here today to appear as witnesses before the Dies committee at Washington.

The subpeonas were served by Robert B. Barker, special deputy sergeant-at-arms of the national House of Representatives.

Assigned as a field officer for the Dies committee, Barker slipped into Boston unannounced and revealed his identity only after he had accomplished his mission.

He then boarded a plane back for Washington.

Barker said he was not authorized to reveal the names of the five persons upon whom he served the subpoenas.

He gave out a brief statement, however, quoting members of the Dies Committee as determined to make a thorough investigation of Christian Front activities throughout the United States.

The organization was brought to public attention when 17 of its New York members were arrested, charged with an armed plot to overthrow the government.

Barker said Dies committee investogators have been conducting a probe in Boston, Manchester, N. H., and Pawtucket, R. I., as well as in New York and other U. S. cities.

DEMANDED INQUIRY

Francis P. Moran, leader of the Boston Christian Front, admitted today he was one of those served with Dies subpoenas here.

"I personally demanded this investigation," he told the Boston Evening American. "I wrote Chairman Dies and J. Edgar Hoover insisting that New England members and officers of the Christian Front be given opportunity to clear themselves of slanderous charges growing out of the New York arrests.

"I don't know yet who else was subpoenaed here. "I know there is a Christian Front group at Manchester, N. H.

"That's a very decent crowd up there, I understand.

HAVE "NOTHING TO HIDE"

"I'm not at all sure that the Pawtucket, R. I., subpoenas were served on Christian Front members. There was another group down there quoted as bitterly criticising the President and the Dies committee. Maybe that group is the one to be questioned.

"I want to say again that the Boston Christian Front has nothing to hide and nothing to be ashamed of. All we want is a chance too tell the truth and clear up public misapprehensions and misinformation."

2 Phone-Box Thief Suspects Are Held

Accused by police of being members of a gang of phone-box coin thieves, John J. Sullivan, 43, of Union Park st., South End, and Horace A. Lipchis, 22, of Lucas st., South End, were held in heavy bail in Municipal Court today.

They were arraigned before Judge F. Delano Putnam on charges of possessing burglars' tools. The judge set Sullivan's bail at $10,000, Lipchis' at $5000.

Jehovah Preacher Hacks Off His Hand

PITTSBURGH, March 21 (INS)—Emmanuel Shapiro, 20-year-old preacher of the Jehovah's Witness Sect, hacked off his left hand at the wrist today and then walked across to the city to his mother's home, holding the bleeding stump of his arm in his pocket.

Police who traced him to his parent's residence, rushed him to Mercy Hospital for emergency treatment. Later he was removed to St. Francis Hospital for mental observation.

BOSS ASKS FIRST LADY'S AID IN STRIKE

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—The boss of the "lunch box boys," whose strike for $1-per-day wages won support of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wants a little aid from the first lady, too.

The proprietor of the box lunch service, Charles J. Corbetoff, wrote Mrs. Roosevelt that his business operated on such a narrow margin it was impossible to meet demands for a fixed weekly wage.

"Your reputation for fair play is one of the reasons I am one of your ardent admirers," he said.

Protestant Churches in Services

Special services have been arranged for Protestant churches throughout Greater Boston, beginning today, to mark the four most solemn days of the church calendar.

Special devotions, tenebrae, processions, sermons, communion services and prayer offerings will be held in preparation for climactic services on Easter Sunday.

Today, Maundy Thursday, will be observed generally with morning services, noonday sermons and evening rituals. Special devotions particular to each church have been arranged for Good Friday and Holy Saturday.

Communion services will be held at 8 p. m. tonight at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in Tremont st. Tomorrow's three-hour service will be directed by Canon Trowbridge, followed at 5:30 p. m. by vesper services.

At Trinity Church in Copley sq., Bishop Sherrill will deliver the noonday sermon today, with the Rev Dr Arthur Lee Kinsolving officiating at evening communion services at 8 p. m. Dr. Phillips Endicott Osgood of Emmanuel Church will speak on the life of Christ tomorrow at 11 a. m. just before the traditional three-hour service.

Dr. Osgood will officiate at four communion services at his own Emmanuel Church in Newbury st., Back Bay, today, and tomorrow will direct a prayer service beginning at noon.

Dr. Palfrey Perkins will be the preacher at the noon day services at King's Chapel tomorrow, while the passion story will be read at 5 p. m. by Dr. John Carroll Perkins.

Continue Hunt For Skeleton

MARSHFIELD, March 21—State police from the Norwell barracks dug up a sand pit off South River rd. today in search of the remainder of a skeleton, parts of which were discovered by Norman Murray of Kingston.

After examination of the skull, Medical Examiner William Hines declared the victim probably died of a skull fracture.

"The bones appear to have been buried quite a long time," Dr. Hines said. "No hair remained on the skull. Absence of the lower jaw and upp teeth prevents dating as far as dental work would give a clue. I think the skull is that of a white person, as an Indian skull likely would be thicker."

On recovery of the rest of the bones, an opinion is expected to be sought from Harvard pathologists. On several other occasions bones dug up in Marshfield, Norwell and Scituate in similar manner, have been found to be those of Indians who lived more than 100 years ago.

See Early End Of Spa Strike

With picketing orderly and peaceful at Thompson's Spa, officials and labor representatives hoped for quick settlement of the three-day strike at conferences scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Board of Arbitration, said he was confident that differences involving an election of bargaining agents would be adjusted at that time.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES OPENED

Solemn high masses were held today, Holy Thursday, in Catholic churches throughout the archdiocese in preparation for solemn observance of Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Final ceremonies of Holy Week began yesterday with chanting of the Tenebrae in many of the churches throughout Greater Boston.

The Tenebrae will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night in a time-honored act of veneration and religious custom.

Observance of Holy Thursday began with masses this morning, at which two hosts were consecrated, one which was consumed by priests at the mass.

The other was borne in procession to an altar of repose, where it will remain until the mass of the pre-sanctified tomorrow—the only mass celebrated in each parish.

In contrast with the main altar and the remainder of the church, which will be stripped of all ornaments and draped in mourning, the altar of repose will be decorated with flowers and illuminated by candles.

Thousands of worshippers will observe the pious practice of visiting seven churches today and tonight to pay veneration to the Blessed Sacrament in the repository.

The holy oils, which will be used in all parishes of the archdiocese during the coming year, will be blessed this morning by the Right Rev. Msgr. Richard J. Cushing, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, during the solemn pontifical mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 9 o'clock.

With the singing of the Gloria during the mass today, the bells will be rung and the organ played for the last time until the same station of the mass is reached on Holy Saturday, as the church dons its cloak of sorrow.

During the mass of the pre-sanctified tomorrow, clappers will be used instead of bells. Stations of the cross will be held in all churches Good Friday afternoon and evening.

Three-hour watches will be maintained in both Catholic and Protestant church starting at noon tomorrow, in commemoration of Christ's agony on the Cross.

Bequest of $7000 To Regis College

Regis College in Weston today received a $7000 bequest for the education of worthy girls of Italian extraction through the will of the Rev. Pasquale Di Milla, well known Boston priest, filed in Suffolk Probate Court.

Father Milla, whose latest work was at an orphange in East Boston, also directed that $5000 be given the Holy Ghost Hospital in Cambridge to endow a bed for a person of Italian extraction.

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD

Get Vitamin B1 for your Nerves

When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply can put color in your cheeks and help you feel like a new person WITHOUT ALCOHOL OR HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.

When your system is low in iron and Vitamin B1 many vital organs slow down—you often look pale, lose your appetite, get tired easily, sleep poorly, and feel nervous and played out. Iron helps make red blood, and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs. Iron-poor blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health.

You need Vitamin B1 and if you don't have enough Vitamin B1 you may get a painful neuritis, stomach upsets, constipation, weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep.

In these conditions, take ENRICH, the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild berries and gives you more iron every day than 6 lbs. of spinach or 6 lbs. of raisins; more Vitamin B1 daily than ¼ lb. of baker's yeast. Your pep comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B1 and you eat more, stay worrying, and sleep better. Right in this neighborhood, many men, women and children feel keen and lead happier lives, through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait, ENRICH costs only a few cents a day. Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

Hopes for Fortune Dimmed by War

Europe's war today dimmed the hopes of three Boston sisters and their brother of collecting a $500,000 British fortune left by their grandfather—just when prospects were bright for an early settlement.

The grandfather was Lieut. Thomas Byrne, member of the Royal Artillery in India.

Miss Mary E. Byrne, Mrs. Anne Louise Shinere and Mrs. Frances S. Wilson, all of Brighton, and John T. Byrne, a Brookline letter carrier, have received notice from their counsel, Atty. Udell Bramson of Portland, Me., that the British War Office has been compelled to defer, indefinitely, all matters of this nature because of the expense and pressure of hostilities overseas.

Atty. Bramson announced, however, that chances of eventually obtaining the prize money of the hero artilleryman were excellent. All that remained, he added was a little more patience until Europe's war muddle had cleared.

Months ago, before war clouds gathered, the Boston heirs of the decorated Gunner Byrne, one of the few survivors of the "Black Hole" of Calcutta, were assured that the British War Office prided itself on settling such claims, when backed by proper documentary proof, in the interest of army morale.

So the four children of the brother of the Calcutta survivor, Joseph Stephen Byrne, Boston College graduate of the class of 1881, who died three years ago, said yesterday that they had waited so long they were "far from impatient," as Mrs. Wilson expressed it.

The Boston heirs received formal notice from the British War Ministry in April, 1939, that Lieut. Byrne held a claim of 100,000 pounds, representing prize money and interest which has been accruing since 1858. The prize money was awarded veterans of the India campaign for each city and stronghold captured. Lieut. Byrne, a native of Wales, died in Brighton in 1900, without ever pressing his claim.

Connolly Split Bail Offer Turned Down

Mrs. John Patrick Connolly, wife of the imprisoned ex-clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Courts, appeared at the office of Dist. Atty. William J. Foley with sureties on real estate worth $14,500 to cover her husband's $10,000 bail—and was turned down.

Robert Bodfish, examiner of bails for the district attorney's office, told Mrs. Connolly that "split bail"—that is, bond to which there are several owners—could not be accepted.

Mrs. Connolly said she would apply to Judge George F. Leary of Springfield, presiding justice at the trial, to have the bail split up on several of the indictments against her husband, instead of having it all on once charge.

That way, it was explained, the 'split bail' might be acceptable.

It was reported that a "prominent Democratic woman leader" might furnish bail for William T. Conway, Connolly's former aide and co-defendant, sometime this afternoon.

Connolly and Conway, meanwhile, began their third day at Charles st. jail.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Medfield School Swept by Fire

MEDFIELD, March 21—Fire today swept the Ralph Wheelock school in Pleasant st., eating out the interior of the three-story wooden building and leaving some 150 grammar school children without quarters.

Apparatus from Millis and Walpole rushed to the aid of the Medfield department, but the structure was doomed by flames fanned by a brisk wind.

The building housed all the grammar school pupils and consisted of six class-rooms and two drawing-rooms. The fire was discovered by Patrolman Lindsey Ripley.

The children have been excused from classes for the remainder of the week until the town fathers can arrange other quarters.

The school is just off the town square, but no other buildings were seriously endangered.

COURT FIGHT SEEN IN RUSSELL CASE

NEW YORK, March 21 (INS)—A court battle loomed as the next move in the storm of controversy over the appointment of Bertrand Russell, British philosopher, to the faculty of City College.

Defendants and opponents of the appointment prepared to argue their views after the filing of a suit asking Russell's removal by Mrs. Jean Kay, housewife and mother of two teen-age children. The appointment has drawn protests from religious and civic leaders and groups.

(Editor's Note: Terming Russell an advocate of "barnyard morality," Sen. Phelps of Manhattan today introduced a resolution in the New York Legislature calling on the New York city board of higher education to rescind the appointment.

The resolution assailed Russell as an "unfit person to hold an important post in the educational system of our State at the expense of the taxpayers.")

Acting as a private citizen to "protect the sanctity of the home," Mrs. Kay's suit asks for a writ calling for a review of the board's decision upholding the appointment. She is suing on the grounds that Russell is neither an American citizen nor has filed application for citizenship.

Her petition calls Russell "a person who for many years has advocated and still advocates sex relationship among students attending colleges and schools . . . without formality of marriage," and also advocates that "sex relationships should be indulged in even before so-called companionate marriage."

Calling the board's action in upholding the appointment a victory for the principle of academic freedom, a representative of the American Civil Liberties Union today offered the organization's battery of legal talent to assist the corporation counsel's defense of the suit.

Trawler Strike Showdown Near

With all but one of the Boston trawler fleet lying idle, the dispute of fishermen and owners moved to a showdown today, with union representatives due to answer a "final demand" of the owners at a meeting at the Fish Pier.

More than 650 seamen decided at a secret meeting whether to accept the demand of officials of the Federated Fishing Boats of New England and New York. They voted that the 1939 division of profits be the basis of the 1940 working agreement with crews of trawlers in the Boston fishing fleet.

The decision of the fishermen, which may precipitate a strike, was given a union representative to be relayed to owners' representatives There are 50 trawlers now idle.

Oklahoma Joins Navy

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Oklahoma's governor will call out the troops because the government dam will flood the place where Oklahoma's top soil used to be.

It seems that Oklahoma didn't want a dam at all. What they wanted was a marble postoffice or a bridge.

But along comes a fellow with the wrong blueprints and makes Oklahoma join the navy.

Oklahoma is right in one thing. Nobody can find out what the government improvements are improving.

P. S.—In case of war with Washington the governor will call loyal Oklahomans home from California.

REFRESHING SPARKLING MINERAL "HEALTH COCKTAIL"

Cheney's New ALKAL-IN-IZER

A spoonful in a glass of water makes an effervescent, bubbling drink of mineral rich water.

First Aid to Colds and an Ideal Corrector of

- Overeating
- Overdrinking
- Hyper-Acidity
- Run Down Condition
- Rheumatic Symptoms
- Mineral Deficiency

Cheney's ALKAL-IN-IZER is a mineral food and body alkal-izer, laboratory prepared, containing in proper balance the minerals needed by the human body

It Contains

Gluconate of Lime: A calcium compound organically assimilable which supplements the modern table diet so often robbed of organic minerals and deficient in Lime.

MINERAL STARVED BODIES

Remember — Calcium salts make up more than 50% of all mineral elements of the body, and assimilable lime is essential to re-mineralize the system.

It has been found that Lime does more than form sturdy bones and sound teeth It has many other uses in building up the soft tissues, body fluids and the blood stream. A certain concentration of calcium is needed in the blood stream White proper foods and the natural functions of the body go a long way to preserve this calcium reserve, unfortunately lime-exhaustic bodies are too common

Lime Gluconate is more acceptable and tolerated than any other form of Lime

Cheney's Alkal-in-izer Also Contains

Soda, Magnesia and Potassium compounds in combination with fruit acids which add to its anti-acid properties in overcoming excessive acidity of the stomach and as a mild ulcer of excessive acid urine. Alkal-in-izer is indicated in treatment of peptic ulcer, during pregnancy and before and after operations

Has Properties of Mineral Waters

A spoonful of Cheney's ALKAL-IN-IZER makes a glass of mineral water equivalent in the opinions of authorities to the waters of famous health-spas and resorts. It can be used freely 3 or 4 times a day

Large Giant Size Bottle $1.00 By Mail 10c Extra

This economy size bottle is enough for several weeks' supply and will make gallons of sparkling mineral water.

HOW N. Y. WOMAN LOST 26 LBS. of FAT

Fat Girls — Here's a Tip!

NEW YORK—Special

In 40 days Mrs. Helga Blaugh reduced 26 lbs. Took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7½ inches off waist. She writes: "I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose 15 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your bulging hips and stomach and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your caloric intake. Eat wisely and satisfyingly.

Then after 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Money back if not joyfully satisfied

Refuse imitations. Demand and get the genuine Kruschen made right here in the U. S. A. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle.

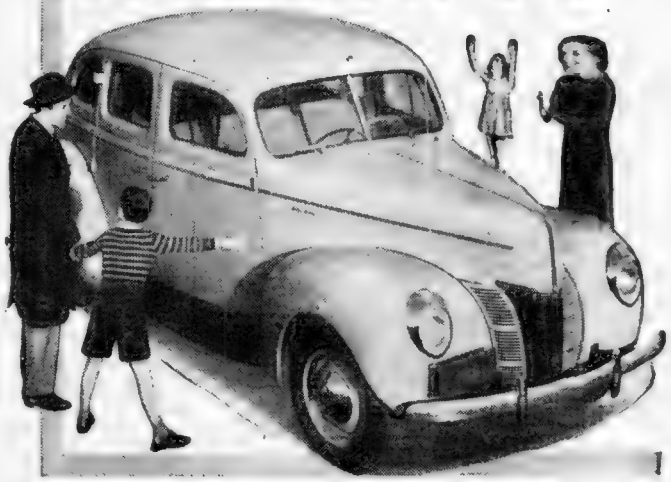
AND YOU GET AN "8" NOT JUST A "6"!



WHEN every high-priced car made in America today has 8 cylinders or more . . . why should you take less in your new car? In a Ford you get an "8"... at low cost . . . and with operating economy proved better than either leading low-priced "6" again in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run. With it . . . you also get the most important fine-car "features" ever put together in a single low-priced car!

Man in Wife-Burial Case Changes Name

Clifford F. Cotter wasn't Clifford F. Cotter at all last May when he won citywide sympathy by telling how his wife had been buried in a pauper's grave with two other dead persons.

He really was Clifford Taft, native of Birmingham, Ala., it was revealed today when an examination of the records of Suffolk County probatec our showed he legally changed his name Feb. 9, 1940.

Cotter, 27, and a former welfare recipient, came into the news when he complained city welfare authorities were guilty of "callous disregard of common decency" in burying his wife with other persons.

"IN COMMON GRAVE"

His wife, mother of his three children, died of pneumonia May 8, 1939, at Boston City Hospital.

"She wa sburied in a common grave three days later and I wasn't even told the services were going to be held so I could attend them," he asserted.

Mayor Tobin obtained a job for Cotter a short time after that, and on Aug. 3, 1939, Cotter married 29-year-old Dorothy Edmison, who had come into take care of the Cotter children following their mother's death.

MARRIED AS COTTER

Today, it was revealed that on Jan. 9, 1940, City Councilor James M. Langdon of Jamaica Plain quietly entered a plea that "Cotter" be allowed to change his name from Clifford F. Taft to Clifford F. Cotter.

"For the reason that I have always believed my name to be Cotter, that I have always used it, that I have been married twice under that name and that my children are named Cotter," the petitioner said.

There were no objections, and Judge Frederick J. Dillon allowed the petition a month later.

Cotter's "occupation' was noted as "unemployed."

Music Thrills Like Rum, Say Pastors

ALTOONA, Pa., March 21 (AP)—Opposing any move to permit floor shows or other forms of entertainment at places where liquor is sold, the Ministerial Ass'n sent this statement to city council:

"It has been statistically and scientifically affirmed the jazz and similar types of music intoxicates the emotions, similar to that of alcoholic beverages, and the other parts of the human organism, and therefore, the two combined, present to both youth and adult the most alluring and insidious temptations to which human beings are subjuect."

BOBBY'S DAD SAVED $300 to pay hospital, nurse and doctor bills. He put the money in the bank in 12 equal monthly deposits. The bank paid him $3.26—2% interest, the minimum annual dividend rate paid by any Mutual Savings Bank in Massachusetts.
IT COST HIM $26.01 less

THE lucky baby, and we hope you'll agree, is the one who came to live with the man who had learned to save. For thrift makes for a happier home and a more secure future. It's far wiser to put aside a certain sum each month—and receive interest—than to pay out the same sum each month—and not only lose that interest, but pay out additional interest in the bargain.

So why not always save before you spend? Your nearest Mutual Savings Bank is a member of the banking system that has been successfully guarding Massachusetts citizens' savings for 124 years. Open an account there today. Have those extra dollars when you need them.

U. S. 'Quins Mother' Is Taken to Hospital

only $50 when he persuaded his wife, the adopted daughter of a Mississippi railroad agent, to elope with him, and their finances have not improved since the wedding.

The young mother-to-be is facing her ordeal calmly, and is greatly pleased over the prospects of becoming the world's second mother of quintuplets in current history.

SHE WILL REAR THEM

"I was frightened at first and couldn't believe it," she said. "My husband was dumbfounded, too. But now we're happy about it and we're making big plans for the babies."

"I hope they'll all be boys," said the mother. "Emory likes boys."

She said she wanted a family of 11 children "and it's all right with me if there are two sets of quintuplets and twins."

Mrs. Callahan declared earlier today her expected five babies will never be out of her sight.

America can love them—even come to see them, perhaps—but a very determined young mother is going to do the bringing up herself.

"What happened to the little Dionne girls will never happen to mine," she promised. "I want my babies with me all the time. We aren't going to be separated."

Echoing her vow was her still bewildered husband, Emory.

"Gosh, if it's true I can retire," he beamed. "Why, I won't have to work just like Mr. Dionne. But we don't intend to let anyone run our affairs—the government, the movies or anyone else."

"I guess boys would be easier to dress," the bride added.

DAFOE OFFERS AID

Heading the offers of aids that poured in from an entire continent was one from a world champion in such affairs, Dr. Allan Dafoe.

Told at North Bay, Can., that X-rays forecast that Mrs. Callahan will give birth to five children in May or June, Dr. Dafoe promised all of the knowledge gained in "Quinland" would be at the disposal of the family and their physician.

Asked if he intended going to Florida, he said:

"No, there are plenty of fine doctors down there. But when they are born they can have the benefit of the Dionne family history and care."

Just as happy as the Callahan couple, who started off married life on 50 cents, were Florida officials.

"I have always said that Florida is the best state in the Union," declared Sen. Claude Pepper. "This seems to prov it."

Mrs. Callahan knew nothing about rearing children—that is until the last few weeks.

Once she learned she was to have a multiple birth, she began devouring all literature on babies and their care.

The coming of the quins would not stop her from having more children, she told reporters.

Both she nd her husband are total abstainers from liquor and tobacco, she declared.

Mrs. Callahan said there is only one multiple birth in her own and her husband's ancestry that they know of. Emory's father was one of a set of twins.

OBJECTED TO BRIDAL

The blue-eyed, freckled-faced bride was married last June 17 at Covington, Ala. It was an elopement because her foster parents objected to her marrying a man she never even "had a date with."

The couple had met while she was travelling from Springfield, Mo., to Birmingham, Ala. and that meeting had been only brief. Courtship and the proposal were carried on by mail.

Mrs. Callahan was born in St. Louis and adopted when she was five years old by E. L. Duren, now a ticket agent at Amory, Miss. Her husband is one of 13 children and was born in Thmasville, Ga., where the couple first went to live with his parents after their marriage.

With 50 cents left to his name Callahan got a job there in a meat packing plant and when jobs got scarce came to Florida three months ago.

News that five little babies were on the way spread rapidly once physicians announced their belief. The milkman told most everyone on the street and the news kept rolling right on from there.

Medical records show that the frequency of quintuplets is about once in 57,000,000 births; twins coming once in 87 births; triplets once in 7569; quadruplets once in about 700,000.

them because President Howard asked him to do it. He said he received only $800, although President Howard had promised to pay him the rest. Smith said the slips were signed in a State st. office.

While pence, attorney for the Broad Street Mutual as well as a director, was on the stand, he was asked by Rep. Woekel what became of the $2000 difference between the $5000 salary signed for by Smith and the $80 he actually received.

ASKS ABOUT BOOKS

"I assume that Smith got the entire $5000 which was voted him at a meeting of the board of directors" Spence replied. "I assumed that he got the money. I don't know where the rest of it went if he didn't get it."

"Do you suppos," asked Woekel, "that the books of the Broad Street Mutual were doctored so it appeared that Smith got $5000 when as a matter of fact he got only $80?"

"Well," said Spence, "it is obvious that I can't answer that question. I assumed that Smith received the money that was voted to him, but there can always be doctoring in any corporation."

Treasurer Philpott testified he was paid $5000 a year in that post, although he had no previous experience in the insurance field.

Questioned by Chairman Goodwin and Rep. Arthur I. Burgess of Quincy, as to whether he filed a 1938 income tax report, Philpott replied:

"I don't believe I should answer that question."

"Did you receive $5000 a year?" asked Burgess.

"Yes sir," replied the witness.

SIGNED VOUCHERS

"Did you sign vouchers for it?"

"Yes."

Philpott testified he was also treasurer of the General Premium Finance Co. and the Hub Insurance Agency, with which the Broad Street Mutual did business and of which Howard is asserted to have been president.

"I received my pay from the Broad Street Mutual, never any from the Hub," Philpott said. "I don't know whether the Hub voted me a salary."

"If I were to tell you," said Burgess, "that in 1937 you were voted a salary by the directors of the Hub, not to exceed $7500 a year, what would you say?"

"I did not get it," replied the witness.

King Gives Out Maundy Money

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—King George VI, for the first time in his reign, personally distributed Maundy money today to 45 poor men and a like number of women at the ancient annual ceremony at Westminster Abbey.

Queen Elizabeth and church dignitaries accompanied him to the church, where he walked between two lines of recipients.

To each he handed a tiny red-and-white leather bag containing 45 pence (about 75 cents) in specially minted silver, and two three and four penny pieces.

The number of recipients and number of pennies given equals the King's age.

He will be 45 next Dec. 14.

Hub Economy Group Again Hits Budget

Advocates of economy in Boston city government today refused to yield under Mayor Tobin's withering attack on "reform organizations" and returned blow for blow in the discussion of the proposed city budget.

"The mayor's statement raises some important questions," Daniel Bloomfield, secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Retail Merchants, asserted.

He added

"Why does Boston have a higher 'adjusted' tax rate (rates in which real estate valuations are included) than any metropolitan city in the United States?

"Why is Boston near the top in per capit expenditure in the list of major cities?

SUGGESTS MERGERS

"Why don't we merge some of the many city departments to cut down overhead expenses; why can't we cut payroll costs by means of a 'no-hiring' policy, thus saving at least $200,000?

"What justification is there in times like these for some major department spending more than last year? Four such departments show an increase of $150,000.

"Do we really need so many constables? Eliminating 30 would save nearly $50,000. The city printing bill is excessive. Could not at least $50,000 be cut from the total?"

At the same time, Margaret McSweeney, chairman of the city committee of the League of Women Voters, sent Mayor Tobin a letter in which she suggested:

"The league believes it would be constructive to reopen the question of reorganization, consolidation and abolishment of overlapping departments, as to duties, services and expenses, as an aid to the financial recovery of the city."

HAVE ECONOMY PLAN

Simultaneously, the league announced it had "made formal protest against the excessively high administrative cost of the city of Boston and offered a program for reorganization that it intends to press."

The flood of pro-economy sentiment followed a speech made last night by Mayor Tobin.

Armed with a detailed diagnosis of the city's financial health and estimates on operating expenses, the mayor contended that "every possible and feasible economy" has been made and that his "self-styled critics are either ignorant of the real facts and the true picture of the city government or are deliberately endeavoring to confuse the public and create a false impression."

Chief object of his attack were "so-called reform organizations," which have advocated wholesale discharges of city employes. He set the average employe's weekly wage at $30 and said it was only that high because of the salaries paid 2000 police officers and 1500 firemen.

Using as basis of comparison the budgets of 1930 and of last year, the mayor pointed to the sharp drop in real estate valuations and the sharp rise in relief and welfare expenses, the Boston Elevated deficit, decreases in income and corporation tax receipts from the state and the increased state assessment.

Without these factors, the mayor said, the tax rate in Boston today would be about $23. In the period discussed the rate jumped from $30.80 in 1930 to $39.30.

However, the real estate valuations have dropped from $1,972,148,000 to $1,524,806,000 and despite the sharp rise in taxes the levy from real estate barely budged, being $60,756,789 in 1930 and $60,839,759 last year.

Other depressing factors were the jump in welfare costs from $5,366,492 to $14,478,596; the increased state assessment from $2,258,502 to $4,325,697; and the reduction in income and corporation taxes from the state of from $11,400,000 to $4,509,125.

Last year the Elevated deficit cost the city $2,055,644 and the Sumner tunnel loss meant another $437,868.

MOLOTOV TO VISIT HITLER

BERLIN, March 21 (INS)—In a move which will speed the pace of Europe's already rushing events, Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov probably will visit Berlin before Easter, it was anticipated today.

When this long-deferred but frequently predicted visit occurs, Chancellor Hitler for the first time will meet Moscow's "key man" and shake hands with the figure whom Berlin regards as Dictator Josef Stalin's foremost envoy.

German official circles remained silent regarding prospects of Molotov's visit, but it was an open secret that Alexander Schkvarzev, Soviet ambassador to Berlin, is expected to return to the German capital by Saturday at the latest. The envoy left unexpectedly for Moscow last night.

Russia to Seek New Finn Lands

STOCKHOLM, March 21 (INS) – Soviet Russia has increased her territorial demands on Finland, according to reports reaching here from Moscow.

Russian authorities, these accounts said, have presented the Finnish delegation now in Moscow with demands for alteration of the frontier as fixed in the peace treaty, to the advantage of the Soviets.

Dr. Juho Paasikivi, head of the Finnish delegation, which went to Moscow to ratify the peace pact and conduct trade negotiations, has informed his government in Helsinki of the new demands, the reports said, but details have not been made known.

ing tugs, the steamship Lancastria, of the same line, loomed into view, inbound from Liverpool by way of Halifax.

The vessels dipped their flags in salute, augmented by blasts from their whistles.

The Lancastria carried 480 passengers, including 12 sailors who said they were to have sailed on the Queen Mary, and 37 other seamen assigned to an unnamed freighter now in American waters.

Waterfront reports had it that the sailors designated for the Queen Mary might take a train to Boston and board her there, where it was reported she might stop long enough to have her hull scraped.

Rain, wind and hail swept the Mauretania's decks last night, when she signaled her departure by two sharp blasts of her whistle, but this morning the 31,235-ton Queen Mary sailed under a clear, cloudless sky.

Both liners were drab in their camouflage gray, their windows blackened and all signs of identity blotted out.

The Queen Mary had been at her berth here since Sept. 4 the day after war started.

Like the Mauretania, she had been stripped of her rich furnishings and there were reports that cabin partitions had been removed to make "dormitory barracks."

Seamen to augment the skeleton crews arrived Monday on the Antonia and yesterday a large shipment of corned beef was taken aboard.

Staying behind at their New York piers were the giant Queen Elizabeth and Normandie, the world's first and second largest ships.

The 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth arrived here March 7 after a secret dash from England on her unofficial maiden voyage. The 83,423-ton Normandie, pride of the French fleet, has been tied up here since outbreak of the war.

U. S. FIGHTERS STAY IN FINLAND

HELSINKI, March 21 (AP)—American volunteers in Finland will remain indefinitely, it was disclosed today by the Finland Ass'n, which appealed for continued contributions of supplies for the American unit.

American volunteers, continuing to arrive, are being assigned with their unit to border patrol duty and reconstruction work. The American unit includes Canadians and Australians.

The newspaper Uusi Suomi said today Finland's coalition war government, formed by Premier Risto Ryti Dec. 1, the day after Russia started her invasion, is expected to resign immediately after Easter.

The newspaper said it was likely President Kyosti Kallio would ask Ryti to remain as premier.

Meanwhile, removal of Finns from the Karelian isthmus, ceded to Russia in the peace treaty of Moscow, March 12, has virtually been completed

Armed with a detailed diagnosis of the city's financial health and estimates on operating expenses, the mayor contended that "every possible and feasible economy" has been made and that his "self-styled critics are either ignorant of the real facts and the true picture of the city government or are deliberately endeavoring to confuse the public and create a false impression."

Chief object of his attack were "so-called reform organizations," which have advocated wholesale discharges of city employes. He set the average employe's weekly wage at $30 and said it was only that high because of the salaries paid 2000 police officers and 1500 firemen.

Using as basis of comparison the budgets of 1930 and of last year, the mayor pointed to the sharp drop in real estate valuations and the sharp rise in relief and welfare expenses, the Boston Elevated deficit, decreases in income and corporation tax receipts from the state and the increased state assessment.

Without these factors, the mayor said, the tax rate in Boston today would be about $23. In the period discussed the rate jumped from $30.80 in 1930 to $39.30.

However, the real estate valuations have dropped from $1,972,148,000 to $1,524,806,000 and despite the sharp rise in taxes the levy from real estate barely budged, being $60,756,789 in 1930 and $60,839,759 last year.

Other depressing factors were the jump in welfare costs from $5,366,492 to $14,478,596; the increased state assessment from $2,258,502 to $4,325,697; and the reduction in income and corporation taxes from the state of from $11,400,000 to $4,569,125.

Last year the Elevated deficit cost the city $2,055,644 and the Sumner tunnel loss meant another $437,868.

MOLOTOV TO VISIT HITLER

BERLIN, March 21 (INS)—In a move which will speed the pace of Europe's already rushing events, Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov probably will visit Berlin before Easter, it was anticipated today.

When this long-deferred but frequently predicted visit occurs, Chancellor Hitler for the first time will meet Moscow's "key man" and shake hands with the figure whom Berlin regards as Dictator Josef Stalin's foremost envoy.

German official circles remained silent regarding prospects of Molotov's visit, but it was an open secret that Alexander Schkvarzev, Soviet ambassador to Berlin, is expected to return to the German capital by Saturday at the latest. The envoy left unexpectedly for Moscow last night.

Russia to Seek New Finn Lands

STOCKHOLM, March 21 (INS) - Soviet Russia has increased her territorial demands on Finland, according to reports reaching here from Moscow.

Russian authorities, these accounts said, have presented the Finnish delegation now in Moscow with demands for alteration of the frontier as fixed in the peace treaty, to the advantage of the Soviets.

Dr. Juho Paasikivi, head of the Finnish delegation, which went to Moscow to ratify the peace pact and conduct trade negotiations, has informed his government in Helsinki of the new demands, the reports said, but details have not been made known.

2 British Liners Quit New York

ing tugs, the steamship Lancastria, of the same line, loomed into view, inbound from Liverpool by way of Halifax.

The vessels dipped their flags in salute, augmented by blasts from their whistles.

The Lancastria carried 480 passengers, including 12 sailors who said they were to have sailed on the Queen Mary, and 37 other seamen assigned to an unnamed freighter now in American waters.

Waterfront reports had it that the sailors designated for the Queen Mary might take a train to Boston and board her there, where it was reported she might stop long enough to have her hull scraped.

Rain, wind and hail swept the Mauretania's decks last night, when she signaled her departure by two sharp blasts of her whistle, but this morning the 81,235-ton Queen Mary sailed under a clear, cloudless sky.

Both liners were drab in their camouflage gray, their windows blackened and all signs of identity blotted out.

The Queen Mary had been at her berth here since Sept. 4—the dey after war started.

Like the Mauretania, she had been stripped of her rich furnishings and there were reports that cabin partitions had been removed to make "dormitory barracks."

Seamen to augment the skeleton crews arrived Monday on the Antonia and yesterday a large shipment of corned beef was taken aboard.

Staying behind at their New York piers were the giant Queen Elizabeth and Normandie, the world's first and second largest ships.

The 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth arrived here March 7 after a secret dash from England on her unofficial maiden voyage. The 83,423-ton Normandie, pride of the French fleet, has been tied up here since outbreak of the war.

U. S. FIGHTERS STAY IN FINLAND

HELSINKI, March 21 (AP)—American volunteers in Finland will remain indefinitely, it was disclosed today by the Finland Ass'n, which appealed for continued contributions of supplies for the American unit.

American volunteers, continuing to arrive, are being assigned with their unit to border patrol duty and reconstruction work. The American unit includes Canadians and Australians.

The newspaper Uusi Suomi said today Finland's coalition war government, formed by Premier Risto Ryti Dec. 1, the day after Russia started her invasion, is expected to resign immediately after Easter.

The newspaper said it was likely President Kyosti Kallio would ask Ryti to remain as premier.

Meanwhile, removal of Finns from the Karelian isthmus, ceded to Russia in the peace treaty of Moscow, March 12, has virtually been completed.

FRANCE PICKS 5 TO 'WIN WAR'

public health, and Albert Riviere, pensions.

The Socialists, largest party in the Chamber but without representation in a French cabinet since Daladier took power in April, 1938, have three ministers in the new government, Monnet Serol and Riviere.

The cabinet was kept from being a real National Union government by the refusal of Louis Marin's Republican Federation at the extreme right to be represented.

Shortly before the cabinet list was issued, the Federation announced it "had declined to participate in a government which dos not correspond to a true war cabinet."

Berlin Sees Reynaud As Leading Nazi Hater

BERLIN, March 21 (INS)—Announcement that Premier Paul Reynaud has formed a new French government was received in Berlin today as an indication that prosecution of the war will now be speeded up.

Reynaud, a member of the so-called Poincare-Barthou school of thought, is regarded here as one of France's leading haters of Germany. He is looked upon as a "blind adherent" of British world leadership.

Danish Ship Shelled, Torpedoed and Sunk

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—The Danish steamer Minsk, 1229 tons, was sunk by torpedo and shellfire Tuesday night, it was disclosed today when nine survivors landed at a Scottish east coast town. Twenty of the crew are missing.

Nazi U-Boat 'Nests' Next British Target

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—Germany's gun-bristling submarine bases in the Baltic are the next probable targets of British bombers, it was reported today as the belligerents disputed the results of their heavy exchange of blows across the North Sea.

The Admiralty belittled a German contention that nine British warships and merchantmen had been sunk in an air attack on a convoy off the Scottish coast yesterday.

Actually, it said, only one Norwegian ship had to be abandoned and another Norwegian and a Swedish steamer were hit. Two naval planes and anti-aircraft guns drove off 10 German Heinkel bombers, it asserted.

However, it was announced later that 30 men were feared lost from two Danish ships, the 2109-ton Botnal and the 1153-ton Viking, sunk off the northeast coast of Scotland yesterday. The manner of their sinking was not disclosed.

Lifeboat landed seven survivors today.

Still later it was learned that five persons were killed when a German war plane bombed a British vessel of undisclosed name and tonnage off the south coast last night.

TONIC FOR "HITO"

(DNB, official German news agency, said nine ships sunk totalled 42,000 tons and two others of 11,000 tons were damaged badly. The agency acknowledged that one German plane had failed to return.)

The German raid was in reprisal for the British bombardment of Syit island Tuesday night and Wednesday morning—a raid that was itself in reprisal for Saturday's German bombing of the British naval base at Scapa Flow.

Watchers along England's southeast coast reported that a mysterious bomber, believed to be German, dropped white, orange, red and green flares during the night.

INTENSE AIR ACTIVITY

Intense activity of British coastal defense forces last night led to reports that German planes [redacted] approaching but there were no verified reports of plane visits today besides that of the flare-dropping craft.

British fighting planes, however, were reported ranging far out to sea with other patrols active along a wide stretch of coast.

The Exchange Telegraph agency reported 49 giant bombers had participated in the Syit raid, 45 of them returning safely.

British Cabinet Changes Near

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—Parliament recessed for the Easter holidays today amid growing reports that Prime Minister Chamberlain would reconstruct his Cabinet during the interval before sittings are resumed April 2.

The House of Commons session ended with outspoken criticism of two Cabinet bigwigs, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon and Lord Privy Seal Sir Samuel Hoare, voiced by Geoffrey Mander of the Liberal opposition.

"It is widely felt throughout the country that the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Lord Privy Seal are heavy liabilities, both at home and abroad," he said.

Speculation outside Commons mentioned Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood and Supply Minister Leslie Burgin as ministers likely to be displaced by the Prime Minister in reshaping his Cabinet for more vigorous prosecution of war tasks.

VACATION FOR GREW

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS) — Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in Tokyo has made tentative plans to return to the United States in May, to report on Far Eastern conditions and enjoy a vacation here, but he has no thought of resigning from his post, the State Department said today.

U. S. QUITS CONSULATE IN POLAND

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) —American citizens in partitioned Poland were cut off from all direct diplomatic representation today as the United States, acting under German compulsion, withdrew its consular officials.

The State Department ordered the withdrawal reluctantly after unavailing protests to the Berlin government.

In yielding to the "request" that all consular establishments "must" be vacated, the department informed Germany that it was reserving "all of its rights in the matter."

The German order, the State Department said last night, applied to the diplomatic representatives of all foreign countries.

FARLEY HERE, SEES LEADERS

ministration should be elected in November.

KEEP FOREIGN POLICY

"I don't think we are going to have a Republican administration," he replied.

"What do you think the plank on foreign policy will be at the Democratic National Convention?" he was asked.

"That's a difficult question to answer now," he said. "If the war ends in three months, before the Chicago convention, there will be no question of foreign policy.

"If the war continues, there is no doubt that the Democratic convention will naturally agree for a continuance of the policy as at present. In other words, we will still maintain the President's policy of staying out of Europe's affairs.

"Some of the President's most bitter opponents approve his foreign policy."

HANDS OFF STATE

Farley sidestepped all questions relating to Massachusetts state politics, declaring he is a firm believer in home rule.

"The Democrats of Massachusetts," he said, "are able to take care of their own affairs without being told what to do by a New Yorker. They would resent it, just as I would resent somebody coming into New York with like advice."

Before heading back for Washington late today, Farley conferred at the hotel with Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston, ex-Governors James M. Curley and Charles F. Hurley, Executive Councillor Daniel H. Coakley and Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever.

Of the Massachusetts party leaders, former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly, was missing today, but Kelly had conferred with Farley last night at Wellesley, where the candidate was a guest and speaker.

The reason for this was that Kelly had to be back today in Fall River, where he is chairman of the Fall River Finance Commission.

Meanwhile, Bay State political analysts sought to determine today what effect the postmaster's unhedging statement placing himself squarely in the fight for the Democratic presidential nomination would have on the presidential primary here April 30. A full slate of delegates has been filed in his behalf.

Speaking bluntly and straight-from-the shoulder, Farley announced that he is a candidate for President in his own right and that his name will positively be presented to the Democratic convention at Chicago.

SILENT ON THIRD TERM

Farley smiled at all attempts to "smoke him out" on his knowledge of a third term attempt by President Roosevelt, but in a serious declaration said:

"To clear up any misunderstanding, let me say that my name will be presented to the Democratic national convention at Chicago."

"And that's that," he added.

Pausing to let the words sink in, Farley decided to clinch their effectiveness.

"I am sure that anyone who has known me during my political career will know that I make that statement frankly and without reservation," he said.

Farley came here in answer to an appeal from his naughter, Betty, to address the students at Wellesley College on the topic "Behind the Ballots," and also apparently to build political fences in Massachusetts.

He made only a jocular reference in this address to what may lie in the political future when he said:

"I suppose many of you would have preferred having me talk about what is going to happen in 1940 rather than what did happen in past elections.

"However, politics has taught me one more very valuable lesson and that is that there is a time to talk and a time to maintain a discreet silence and this is one of the latter times."

He told the college girls that women are excellent political workers and in some respects more efficient than men.

Farley was dined at Tower Court prior to his address and among those present was Lucille Shepard, whose father is senator from Texas. He spoke to 1500 students and in the question period that followed he said:

"Im sure everyone is dying to ask me about the third term."

But the girls refrained from asking him. He also said he believed the American people want a balanced budget.

In five of the 15 congressional districts in this state Farley candidates face a contest from independents. But his candidacy brought together political factions at swords points for many years. His delegates include ex-Govs. Curley, Hurley and Ely, Cong. John McCormack and U. S. Senator Walsh.

TINKHAM BLASTS CROMWELL

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS) —Congress should consider impeachment of American minister to Canada James H. R. Cromwell if he is not recalled, Rep. George Holden Tinkham (R.) of Massachusetts, declared in a letter to Secretary of State Hull today.

Tinkham declared that Cromwell's speech in Toronto in which he assailed isolationists and said the Allies are fighting for freedom and individual liberty, was "intended to incite the American people to war.

ASSAILS AMBASSADOR

He also accused Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, of having violated his diplomatic privileges in a speech in Chicago last October, and said that another speech should result in a demand that Great Britain recall him.

Any disciplinary action against Cromwell, short of recall, "will be insufficient to meet the present situation," Tinkham said in his letter.

"Mr. Cromwell has made two offensive and disloyal speeches in Canada recently," said Tinkham. "His utterances on both occasions were in flagrant violation of the neutrality proclamation of the President last September.

DEMANDS RECALL

"The speeches were intended to incite the American people to enter the present war and were seditious utterances. They were speeches of an alien propagandist, not of a loyal American representative.

"Disloyalty and sedition should no longer be tolerated by the American people.

"If James H. R. Cromwell is not recalled at once, the Congress should seriously consider his impeachment."

Queries on Low Cost Homes Pour in Here

An almost unbelievable response to FHA low cost housing plans has literally swamped the staff of State Director John F. Malley with mail and telephone requests for purchase and building details, it was revealed by his office today.

W. R. Huff, FHA public relations assistant, visiting the Boston office, said he was very favorably impressed with the interest this section showed in the low cost homes.

He indicated the initial New England project was all set to go and while he withheld for the present its location he said it was almost sure to be started by April 1st.

The homes featured in this first local project will range in value from $2500 to $3500 with carrying charges running from a low of $15 a month to $21, exclusive of taxes and insurance.

The Boston Evening American was given unstinted praise during the course of the interview for its recent picture displays and plan reproductions of the new homes.

Much of the mail received in the F. H. A. Park Sq. Building office, requesting further information contained clippings from the newspaper.

Huff said that developments similar to that scheduled to get underway in this section already exist in Chicago, Detroit and Indianapolis.

These cities all experience weather conditions like those of New England and Huff believes the interest shown in the homes here promises local projects will be just as successful.

So amazing has the response of potential home owners been that builders asked the local F. H. A. office to supply special explanations and instruction.

Because explanations by mail or telephone must of necessity be limited, the Boston office decided to hold a series of open forums to which builders, bankers and real estate interests are invited.

The first was held today in the auditorium of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co. in the Back Bay.

Another is scheduled for 2 p. m Friday and others will be given just as long as there is any demand for them.

At the meetings qualified experts will handle every phase of low cost home construction. With the features the FHA must pass on before insuring mortgages receiving special attention.

Huff reported a country-wide home building revival which was sweeping residential building figures above those of a year ago. He expects Massachusetts to contribute good gains in the months ahead.

STAY UP TO DATE WITH THE CONTEST

If you're not yet in the contest and would like to start now, you can get all the previous puzzles, Nos. 1-33. Just fill out the coupon and mail it, enclosing 2c for each puzzle desired.

In the meantime, get started on today's puzzle. Find the WORD it represents, by adding and subtracting the letters given and the letters in the names of the objects pictured.

PUZZLES DIVIDED INTO SERIES OF SIX

The puzzles are divided into weekly series of six; that is, the six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week. This week's series should be submitted any time before midnight, Saturday, March 30. The next and subsequent series should similarly be submitted within the week following publication of the series in the Record and American. (You can follow the contest in either paper.)

ENCLOSE 10c WITH EACH SERIES

The rules require a remittance of 10c in coin with each series of six solutions. In return, contestants will receive a special set of original, entertaining Rebus Puzzles at the conclusion of the contest.

Neatness doesn't count—so don't bother to decorate your submissions in any way.

How to Solve a Rebus Puzzle . . .

For a quick, simple illustration, suppose you were asked to solve a puzzle like this:

HORSE minus ROSE plus OT equals a 2-letter word

You would cross out the letters R, O, S, E from the word HORSE, leaving you merely the letter H. To that you would add the letters OT, giving you the word HOT as your solution.

First Prize	$10,000.00
Second Prize	$2,000.00
Third Prize	$1,000.00
Fourth Prize	$500.00
Fifth Prize	$350.00
Sixth Prize	$250.00
Seventh Prize	$150.00
Eighth Prize	$100.00
Ninth Prize	$100.00
Tenth Prize	$100.00
Ninety Prizes at $5 each	$450.00

INFORMATION CORNER

QUERY: It is not quite clear to me just what is meant by a series. Please explain.

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., March 18, to Sat., March 23, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, before Midnight, Sat., March 30, together with 10c in coin. In return for remittances, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One Hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of each tie-breaking puzzle. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by a name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

Al Capone Reported At Home in Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Much activity and lights that blazed throughout the night led to the belief today that Al Capone might be behind the sheltering walls of his luxurious Palm Island estate, kept trim as a needle for nearly a decade awaiting him.

The Miami Hehald quoted an unnamed source as saying the former Chicago gang leader had returned to his Florida home, and Capone disappeared from the house in Baltimore he had occupied since Jan. 8.

Dan Coughland, caretaker at the Palm Island estate, denied Capone was there and refused admittance to newsmen.

Under Florida law, Capone must register as a former felon within 48 hours of arrival.

In Baltimore, Dr. Joseph E. Moore, who had been attending Capone, said he had not been informed of Capone's departure.

The scar-faced former gangster was discharged from federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 16, to which he was transferred after serving seven years at Alcatraz and Terminal Island prison for evading federal income taxes.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DOCTORS WARN FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

FIVE IN A ROW

Dear Sir—If the Florida woman does give birth to quintuplets, I hope and pray that she will not permit their exploitation. I don't know whether it was Canada or the Dionne family that began exploitation of the Dionne Quints but the whole thing has reached such a stage that a natural childhood has been denied them.

TICK-TOCK, TICK-TOCK

Dear Sir—I am a mission clock. Will you advise me how to collect my social security. Probably you remember my history.

Thirty-one years ago you sold me to a lady for some coupons and $1.95. Do you remember?

The young lady married that October and she and her husband built a new home and hung me on the wall in the dining room. Do you know, I ticked right along, never making a mistake in my work, until a few weeks ago I became so exhausted I said to myself: "Now I have worked 31 years without stopping and I can now rest and draw my income."

But what do you think happened? The lady of my house took me to a jeweler who just cleaned me up and oiled my old joints, and I just had one week of rest when I was right back on the same wall, ticking perfect time.

What would you do if you were in my place? Is there no justice or security for a faithful old clock?

Boston American Mission Clock of 1909. This clock truly never stopped in 31 years.

MRS. WILLIAM D. KEEFE.

ISOLATED INFIDELITY

Dear Sir—If Bertrand Russell thinks isolated infidelity is not destructive to marital happiness and is being paid to disseminate his belief at Harvard and City College in New York, I want to know what the American nation is coming to. And so does my wife.

Open Historic Cemeteries For 2 Burials

Two of Boston's oldest and most historic cemeteries will have their first burials in years this week.

Scheduled for today was an interment in Old Granary Burying Ground in Tremont st., resting place of John Hancock, Paul Revere, James Otis, the parents of Benjamin Franklin, victims of the Boston Massacre and other notables of Revolutionary and Colonial days.

To be placed in the Roulstone family tomb there is the body of Miss Georgianna Frances Roulstone, 88, of Gainsboro st.

Born in Boston, Miss Roulstone was the daughter of Edward Augustine Gray Roulstone and Mrs. Harriet Newhall Roulstone, also of Boston.

Today's funeral was to be from the Roulstone home.

To be buried Saturday in East Boston's historic Bennington St. Cemetery is the late Mrs. Ellen McCarthy Coon of Sanborne ave., West Roxbury. She was the widow of George F. Coon, a descendant of one of the earliest settlers of East Boston, then called Noddle Island.

The interment in the Coon family lot will be the first in five years in the Bennington St. Cemetery.

Are YOU Paying This Awful Price For Being NERVOUS?
Are overtaxed nerves making you old, haggard, cranky and hard to live with—"nerves" making your life a nightmare of jealousy, self-pity, hysteria and "the blues"? THEN LISTEN—
Often such nervousness is due to female functional disorders. So take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help calm unstrung sensitive nerves and lessen functional irregularities. For over 60 years relief-giving Pinkham's Compound has helped tens of thousands of grandmothers, mothers and daughters in "time of need."
Pinkham's Compound is the best known and one of the most effective "woman's" tonics obtainable. Results should delight weak, run-down, nervous women. Try it!

BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

EXCLUSIVE: When two irksome affairs of State hinging on the supervision of a few tons of mutuel-ticket machines are settled, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall will take-off for three weeks of California . . . Or he may even go sooner than that—as some parties are reported to be wishing. George M. Cohan has put all but the last line of his "Return of the Vagabond" on paper . . . George M. doesn't write the last line of a play (no more will veteran actors recite it) until the final dress rehearsal . . . The play is not cast yet . . . Accordingly the tentative Boston booking of April 15 will not be kept . . . The Yankee Doodle Kid loves the Public Garden in May . . . That may be a cue.

WHAT'S ALL THIS ABOUT Congressman John W. McCormack as a "New Deal choice for Governor?" . . . If it's true, then whatever the widely-circulated rumor means by "New Deal"—particularly if it means FDR and his intimates—can take a bow for basest ingratitude . . . In those days of the Republican sweep of New England in 1938, one young man and he alone proved that a Democrat—the right Democrat—could still win a State-wide fight in Massachusetts . . . That young man was Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever, who held his job while the walls were tumbling down . . . He is recognized generally as the Democrats' chief hope in 1940 . . . We doubt the McCormack story, but it has pinned on a pair of wings these past few days—and you might as well read it first right here.

PREDICTION—but a daring one: The present Boston police sergeant's list will "die" without a single appointment being made therefrom . . . This disappointing forecast, we must tell you frankly, is based on certain gleanings won by this department as a result of a conference between Mayor Tobin and Police Commissioner Timilty . . . "Budget trouble."

COMMISSIONER TIMILTY

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: With Secretary of State Cordell Hull having reportedly taking himself out of the Presidential tourney, friends of James Roosevelt are remembering that Jimmy was polling all his Boston friends on Secretary Hull's chances when he was in town last fall . . . Mr Roosevelt is going to produce a picture called "Pot of Gold" . . . So here's a Rebus in reverse . . . Take the quotation-marks out of "Pot of Gold" . . . Now take all the letters except the initials of the words out of the title . . . Put a period after each remaining letter . . . Reverse it . . . Reverse it—is what Jimmy hopes will happen to the optimism currently being felt in the ranks of the what-you-have-left after doing our little prolem.

AND SPEAKING OF THESE SAME RANKS—here's an interesting flash due to be released quite soon . . . Mrs. Addison Greene of Holyoke will swap her job as Republican national committeewoman for that of Mrs. Williams, vice chairman of the State committee . . . Also: Rep. George W. Roberts will make his formal announcement of candidacy for the G. O. P. nomination for Attorney General on May 30 . . . Stray thought department: Jimmy Cromwell is now morally obligated to get a whopper of an "M-Day" contribution out of his wife, "the richest girl in the world" . . . Yeah, and I wanna see him on a transport, too . . . Jimmy Silin says Jimmy Foxx's cold is down to a spasmodic sneeze and the slugger's sinusitis—knock wood—isn't kicking up at all.

MIDNIGHT MURMURS: Harry James, the trumpeter-leader, says: "Musicians don't have jam sessions any more because jam sessions were the musicians' fun, and now they get their fun on the job . . . The public wasn't considered ready for the hot licks and out of the world stuff when the boys were jammin' . . . But the public was really ahead of us—waiting" . . . Harry is making records now for Eli Oberstein's Varsity . . . He thinks his "Every Day In My Life" (just out) will be a best-seller . . . Harry Paul, at the Southland ringside: "Read this. No, I'll read it. (Reading) 'Doris and I have just saluted Jake Stavisky at the opening of Victor Hugo's.' (Signed) Rudy" . . . Doris is Doris McCuen of Belmont—(Ed, note: a beauty) . . . Stavisky is Jacques Renard . . . Victor Hugo's is the Beverly Hills cafe where Jacques' band had its premiere Monday night . . . Rudy is Rudy Vallee . . . And going back over his romances since his "Vagabond Lover" days we don't recall a Greater Boston girl ever being squired before by Rudy . . . Unless the cameramen are still holding it in for Rudy, pictures of the two should be coming along soon.

RUDY VALLEE

POLICE BREAK UP N.Y. PICKETERS

No Time Lost—When two score demonstrators appeared in front of the French consulate in New York and sought to picket it because of edict closing refugee camps in France to all but those willing to fight for Allies, police swung into action.

FLOWER-BANKED altars, solemn services in Catholic and Protestant churches, worshipers attending in numbers larger than ever before; thus Boston, New England and the nation observe Holy Week.

In the Tenebrae, Passion Plays and traditional pageantry, young and old move in spirit along the road to Calvary, contemplating once more the tragic happenings of nineteen centuries ago.

With so much of the world at war, so great a part of civilization defiled by atheism, barbarism and pagan philosophies, this reconsecration to the fundamental teachings of the Redeemer is important and heartening.

Men and women and children on this side of the Atlantic have not forgotten the ideals that sustained their forefathers in the building of the noblest nation mankind has known.

Their faith during this devout period proves it.

IF CONGRESS is interested in saving human life and averting needless damage to property, Senators and Representatives will give Boston an independent weather station.

We pointed out, some time ago, the inadequacy of the present long-range, hit-or-miss system, which obliges a meteorologist in Washington to speculate upon climatic conditions in an area from North Carolina to the Canadian line and frequently as far West as the Mississippi river.

REP. McCORMACK
Voices Boston's Plea

We sincerely hope the Federal Government will do something before another hurricane or blizzard sweeps unannounced into this section.

Congressman John W. McCormack, who has filed a bill for the establishment of the Boston station, is right when he says it is a physical and mental impossibility for any man a thousand miles away to try to anticipate New England frosts, snowfalls and northeastern gales.

Only a skilled forecaster, familiar with local conditions and LOCATED ON THE SCENE, can hope to be reasonably accurate.

The $25,000 Mr. McCormack asks for the establishment and maintenance of the separate New England weather bureau is less than the amount ordinarily spent for a WPA sewer.

Yet one timely prediction of a major storm could easily prevent the destruction of crops worth millions.

WILD LIFE WEEK, currently observed throughout the nation by Presidential proclamation, appeals powerfully to every New Englander.

Help Save Wild Life

We all know how carelessness and thoughtlessness have combined in the past to make many species of birds, flowers and trees extinct.

We can readily imagine what will happen in the future if the lessons of sad experience are ignored by too many people.

Of course it is impossible for most of us to set lands apart for the protection and propagation of endangered animal and floral life.

But, happily, personal responsibility of this nature is unnecessary. The work of conservation is being well handled and efficiently conducted by many excellent organizations like the Massachusetts Audubon Society, the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Federation of Bird Clubs of New England and the Wild Flower Preservation Society.

They ask only that we support the poster stamp campaign which is raising funds for local and national conservation projects. We should all contribute, as generously as our financial circumstances permit.

Homeward

NOW, the highroad leads to adventure, and the highroad leads to thrills . . . But, O, for the little winding road that leads us over the hills . . . that leads us through the gloaming, where a candle's mellow ray . . . beckons the wanderer homeward, cheering him on his way . . . where a fire on the hearth is glowing, and a kettle is singing sweet . . . and rest and peace and comfort are awaiting the weary feet.

For home is where the heart is, a place where one can live . . . and not thank some dictator for the work-hours he can give.

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

NEWS of the arrest in England of a woman deserter from the Royal Air Force, and her detention to await a court-martial, happened to fall into the paper on the same day as a long cabled dispatch from London about the fashions of British women in war time.

The latter piece ran according to form, and might have been written in 1915. It emphasized the wholesome and gratifying trend toward "feminine frills and flounces," away from the mannish styles and military vogue of a few months ago.

The arrest story of the woman deserter seemed rather stark in contrast. There's a news item which doesn't run according to form.

It is extremely unlikely that the lady will be shot. The event will yield no such drama as would the arrest of a beautiful woman spy. But it is a grim little aside on modern totalitarian war. There are about 25,000 women, flying or in training, in the British air force.

SOME ESTIMATES are that perhaps 10,000,000 women are or will be engaged either in combat service or industrial war work in this war on both sides.

Women did a great deal of hard dirty drudgery in the World War, making munitions or working in factories.

Somehow, these chatty fashion columns from the war zone about "women who retain their old sweet femininity"—we quote from one of them—are a bit off key these days. War is an all-pervasive evil which stifles chivalry, gallantry, tenderness and beauty.

When we drop bombs on women and children, it is pretty far fetched to build up the illusory importance of their "frills and flounces."

STRINGFELLOW BARR of St. John's College and other educators are starting a civil war among the school men. Their latest recruit is Professor Mortimer J. Adler of the University of Chicago.

The main idea of this group is to catch the student young and rub in about 110 great books—the classics of the ages.

NOT AN AMAZON, JUST A BRITISH PATRIOT!
Women Take Over Work of Men—This One Carries Meat

Dr. Adler, contending that few of us really can read, wheels up some heavy artillery in support of their contention that if we would "read, learn, mark and inwardly digest" great literature and philosophy we would be an educated people in a great and true sense.

They insist that the great books must be read in their entirety and in the original.

One wonders about that. How many of the brightest of us could profitably read Kant's "Critique of Reason," Newton's "Principia," Spinoza's "Sub Specie Aeternitatis," the Hegelian dialectic, the Darwinian biology or the Einsteinian physics without some kind of pony?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 21—I had a few visitors Monday afternoon and went out in the evening for half an hour to speak to a group here in the District. Tuesday morning was free, and I went for the first ride I have had in months.

It was good to get out again, even if the ground was rather soft in spots. The thought that I could not ride again for a few days made me feel that I had better be very conservative, so as not to be completely stiffened up tomorrow.

I have had a delightful luncheon with Mrs. Robert Jackson, wife of the Attorney General, and I have no further official engagements.

I FIND that quite inadvertently I made two statements which were not true in this column, and I must correct them. Both of them were about thrift shops, one in Washington and one in New York city.

When I mentioned the Thrift Shop Ball which I attended, I said it was the one thrift shop here. As a matter of fact, the Women's League for Peace has had a thrift shop in the District of Columbia for two years.

In New York city I said that the Frontier Nursing Service was participating in a thrift shop called "The Bargain Box," but I should have added other organizations have been working in the same cause much longer.

They are the Association for Aid to Crippled Children, the Henry Street Visiting Nursing Service, the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, the Lincoln Hospital, and the Metropolitan Hospital.

THE FIRST LADY
Enjoys Ride in Park

I have been familiar with all these charities for a long time, and there is no excuse for my not knowing that they were the ones who founded this now well established thrift shop. I apologize for not having mentioned them because, of course, one wants to stimulate the interests of people from every group. Thrift shops can only flourish when they have a wide clientele of people who bring them things to sell, and people who come to buy.

MR. ROBERT S. BOWEN, the scrapbook editor of the Madison Enterprise Recorder, Madison, Fla., begs me to urge every Southern poet to send his poetry in to him. He is planning to publish a Suwanee River anthology of Southern poets, and he wants to include the work of as many writers as possible. The South should bring forth many poets, for it is a land where the countryside and other conditions inspire poetic expression.

BERLIN MAY WRITE NASSAU SONG

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 21—Some of the native singers in Nassau last week gathered in front of the hotel, on the beach, and sang native tunes to the guests . . . "The same old songs," one of the guests complained. "You've been singing those same songs for five years. If you don't change 'em, I'll write a new one myself" . . . "Think you can do it?" one native challenged . . . "Yes," replied Irving Berlin, "I think I can do it."

OLIVIA AND STUDIO BURY HATCHET

By Louella O. Parsons

Olivia DeHavilland

HOLLYWOOD, March 21 The hatchet has been officially buried between Olivia De Havilland and Warner Brothers and Olivia is being welcomed back on the lot as if nothing happened. She paid Hal Wallis a visit today and she is very happy over his selection of "Episode" for her, which she starts in two weeks with Kurt Bernhard, a German director, megaphoning.

"Episode," you may remember, was bought for Kay Francis some years ago after it was filmed in Vienna. Now the locale has been entirely changed so that the action takes place in America instead of Austria. Michael Hogan, who wrote the adaptations of "Nurse Edith Cavell" and "Rebecca," has actually written an entirely new play retaining only the basic plot of Walter Reisch's original story.

Mystery Aplenty for Boston Patrons; New Vaudeville

'House of Seven Gables' Tops Bill

It's chills-and-shivers or 'mystradrama week" at the RKO Boston, starting with today's first local showing of the twin marrow-freezing screen features, "The House of Seven Gables" and Black Friday."

Headlining the vaudeville show of seven acts are Borrah Minevitch's harmonica rascals.

Advance information has it that "The House of Seven Gables" though it lacks the eighth-wonder Gable, has in local-girl Margaret Lindsay, who plays Hepzibah Pyncheon in Universal's screen dramatization of Nathaniel Hawthorne's famous novel, one of the year's dramatic finds.

At the picture's Salem premiere last night, at which Miss Lindsay, visiting in New England, made a personal appearance, the foregoing idea was unanimous.

"Black Friday," also a Universal release, co-stars Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi.

Trans-Lux Hit By Laurel, Hardy

If you're a Laurel and Hardy fan, prepare to laugh yourself into the aisle at "A Chump at Oxford," now showing on Trans-Lux screen.

Now don't go asking for the story because there isn't any. And anyway, since when have these two zanies needed a conventional plot? They bounce along on gags in this as in past film comedies and, in our hearing, they've never had a more appreciative audience.

Throughout the accent is on clowning and the hilarity is constant and contagious.

If you are Laurel and Hardy-minded, make haste to see Hal Roach's "A Chump at Oxford." Otherwise, the answer is no.

ETHEL BARRYMORE EXCELLENT IN NEW COMEDY AT WILBUR

Sheean Play Low in Vitamins

By PEGGY DOYLE

Ethel Barrymore, gallant first lady of the drama before there were Cornells or Lunts or Hayeses, must get tired proving it.

Last night, at the Wilbur Theater, she opened in "An International Incident," War Correspondent-Author Vincent Sheean's first play, a comedy produced and directed by Guthrie McClintic.

Miss Barrymore, who has acted all the ages of women with brilliant conviction in a collection of sometimes fairly graceless productions these past seasons, is acting her age in her current vehicle and completely persuading you that it is woman's most charming time of life.

Her fascination is inescapable and at times has you almost convinced that the play merits its star. But this is an illusion promptly dissipated by the contributions of other members of the cast, all of them competent but not possessed of Miss Barrymore's gift of magic.

Which is to say that even this First Actress' acting genius is not sufficient to put over a play that is first only in the numerical sense. Newspaperman Sheean, who has had an almost uncanny affinity for the front-page, fails to get his story across the Wilbur footlights successfully.

It has to do with the fabulous Leila Rochester, a Pauhannock, Ind., girl who has gone to England, achieved three newsworthy marriages there including a titled one. Now, unattached, she has returned to America to embark on a transcontinental lecture tour contracted for a couple of years ago.

The time being right now the handsome visitor discovers that visiting British lecturers (long-time residence and her English marriages have practicaly made her an expatriate) are no longer as welcome as the flowers in May. They want to know what's her racket.

One of them, the most attractive and insistent, remains to convince her that, consciously or otherwise, she is peddling propaganda—that her pleasant Mayfair gossip is the smoothest way to sell America short. She is so interested she walks out on the committeewomen who are sponsoring her first lecture to have lunch with him.

Kent Smith, who plays the newspaperman, may have convinced Mrs. Rochester but he never convinced us that he was in love with her. There was no doubt, though that Mrs. Rochester, as Miss Barrymore portrayed her, enjoyed to the fullest her lecture-tour, not excepting the Detroit cop's "biff in the snout" and the true-to-life clubwomen who keep bobbing up out of the map like so many carbon copies in triplicate.

Catharine Doucet, Lea Penman and Eda Heinemann played these recurring club ladies almost too realistically. By the time you had met up with them again—under different names and in equally smart what-the-well-dressed-club-woman-will-wear costumes — they began to get in your hair as much as in Mrs. Rochester's soft-brown permanent. And Regina Valdy's French maid, with her parokeet chit-chat en Francaise, it too became a trifle tedious.

Right Honorable Clarke-Bates' veddy Britishness, as dispersed by Cecil Humphreys, was downright welcome but it came too late to give substance to a plot that is on the thin side and minus its vitamins.

Lunts' New Play Unites Groups

The Playwrights' Company and the Theater Guild, two of the theater's most important and prolific producing firms, have joined forces for the production of Robert E. Sherwood's new play, "Revelation," starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The teaming up of the two groups will in all probability come as a mild sort of surprise to those and there are some—who supposed that keen, perhaps bitter, rivalry existed between the two roganizations.

In strict truth, the Playwrights' Company owes a great deal to the Guild, and its individual dramatist members would be the first to acknowledge such a debt. All of them with the exception of Elmer Rice have worked with the Theater Guild on many occasions in the past, some of the greatest successes of Maxwell Anderson, S. N. Behrman and Mr. Sherwood having been launched by that producing group.

"Revelation," incidentally, will have one of the most provocative casts of the season when it comes to the Colonial Theater on April 1 for its two-week stay. In addition to its stars, Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne, the company will include Richard Whorf, Sidney Greenstreet, Maurice Colbourne, Edward Raquello, Montgomery Clift, Charles Ansley, Gordon Mills Elisabeth Fraser, Claude Horton, Thomas Gomez, Phyllis Thaxter, Chaviver Chester, Ralph Nelson and Robert Downing.

VIRGINIA DALE is Hollywood's May Girl, who is as refreshing as the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la. Virginia, all togged out in her farmerette attire, has flaxen hair, big blue eyes and was born in the month of May. You'll be seeing her in Paramount's "Buck Benny Rides Again," due at the Metropolitan the latter part of May, as a girl of the Golden West.

OLD COMRADES SUPPORT EVANS IN 'RICHARD'

Donald Randolph to Play Role of Harry Bolingbroke

An "evening with Evans" will not mean going supperless, for it will be "curtains" at 8:30 and 11 p. m. at the Colonial during next week's "King Richard II" engagement.

Maurice Evans' support will be composed of members of his first "Richard" cast and of the company that surrounded him in his uncut "Hamlet" production.

Donald Randolph will have the role of the usurping Harry Bolingbroke (instead of Ian Keith, as originaly announced) who forces Richard to step down from his throne and sends him to his death. Randolph was Mr. Evans' Horati in a majority of his "Hamlet" performances but on a number of occasions he played King Claudius.

Charles Dalton returns to his original part of the Earl of Northumberland, Sidney Smith in that of Sir Thomas Mowbray, Rhys Williams as the Welsh captain, Emmett Rogers as Harry Percy, afterward called "Hotspur," and Everett Ripley as Bagot. John Barclay, late the Ghost in "Hamlet," will play John of Gaunt, Laureo Gilbert the Duke of Aumerle, Franz Bendtsen the Duke of York, and Carmen Mathews, the recent Ophelia in "Hamlet" will be the unfortunate young queen.

The production will be the beautiful and massive one designed by David Ffolkes that was seen here before, but it has been partially rebuilt and entirely redecorated. A forestage over the orchestra pit again will be used to bring the action into intimate relation to the audience. The direction, of course, is that of the brilliant Margaret Webster who also staged "Hamlet" and "King Henry IV" for Mr. Evans.

The engagement is limited to a single week with the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

MAURICE EVANS and Carmen Mathews in "Richard II," opening Monday at Colonial.

MIRIAM BATTISTA portrays one of the leading roles in "Mulatto," a three-act drama by Martin Jones, that opens at the Copley on Saturday. The original New York cast comes to the Copley after one year on Broadway.

The ancient St. Botolph Club of Boston stood out today as perhaps Boston's last exclusive male retreat treat.

For members of the Harvard Club of Boston authorized its board of governors to "approve or disapprove" a proposal to establish living quarters for women in the club rooms at Massachusetts and Commonwealth avenues.

The action came after the board suggested that an annex be constructed for the "widows, wives and lady guests of members."

If favorable action is taken, St. Botolph Club will be the only male organization in the city to deny women admission to its quarters.

Ratoff Returns as Screen Actor

'Great Profile' Role for Gregory

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 21 — "The Great Profile," which obviously is the story of John Barrymore, brings Gregory Ratoff back to the screen for the first time in three years as an actor.

You'll see the volatile and amusing Gregory as Mr. Mefooski, the "Great Profile's" agent, business manager and bodyguard. It's the same character he created in "Sing Baby Sing" and "Broadway Through a Keyhole."

John threatened to sue 20th Century-Fox because of the caricature of him in "Sing Baby Sing." Probably he feels now that it is good publicity and Darryl Zanuck must think so for he's trying to get John to play himself, which would certainly be feather in some one's cap.

Ad by the way, Greg isn't giving up directing. As soon as he finishes emoting he'll take up his magaphone with "Dance Hall."

Hunt Stromberg has personally purchased "Equilibrium" by Laszlo Vajda in which he sees Spencer Tracy as the hero and Margaret Sullavan as the heroine.

The story is similar to "Variety" which was produced by UFA with Emil Jannings and Lya de Putti some 15 years ago. There is a circus atmosphere in which Spence does a dive-of-death stunt, choosing as his partner a girl who has tried to kill herself.

Romance steps in and the spectacular leap is postponed in favor of something less hazardous.

Special Equipment For 'Pinocchio'

In order to perfectly reproduce for its patrons all the subtle tones of Technicolor's new multiplane color process, used for the first time in Walt Disney's second full-length feature, "Pinocchio," opening at Keith Memorial Theater today, the management announces the installation of the newest and most modern RCA projection equipment in its booth, assuring those who come to the theater to view this newest Disney success of its utmost enjoyment.

Pink Geranium Complexion

By ARLINE GOULD

ONLY THREE DAYS to Easter Sunday, and we all have our fingers crossed hoping the skies will smile on our finery . . . but rain or shine, we all owe it to ourselves to have bright new faces to match our bright new bonnets.

A brand new make-up comes along just in time, bringing youthfulness and gaiety with it. It's name conveys what it will do for your spring complexion . . . Pink Geranium it is called, and it has all the vivid prettiness of that colorful posy.

This pink geranium lipstick is a honey. It is a clear, lovely pink with just a bit of blue in it, a color that does equally well by blondes or brunettes. Moreover, it is made by a firm whose lipsticks are the pet of hundreds of very smart women.

They are wonderfully indelible, yet they are not drying. On the contrary, they import a dewy softness, a coquettish innocence, to the lips. This firm heretofore has made only a $1.50 lipstick, but they are giving us a dollar size as well in this very new decor.

You'll absolutely adore the Geranium Pink rouge, which exactly matches the lipstick. The cream kind is of a slick consistency and spreads a rosy glow over your cheeks with the greatest of ease. If you prefer a dry rouge, you will find this one lovely in color and staying quality. These are priced at $1.10.

To complete this flower-petal make-up you should have some of the violet or soft blue eye-shadow which harmonizes with your geranium lips and which you can get at the same cosmetics counter. You see, this is definitely not the year for the "femme fatale"; you will be feminine and pretty in your navy suit this spring if you want to be up-to-date.

Arline Gould will gladly tell you where to get this "Geranium Pink" make-up if you call LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays, or write her enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Turkey Makes a Tempting Easter Dinner

By MARTHA LEE

TANTALIZING odors of hot turkey, fine quality birds, roasted to a tempting succulence and tenderness. That will be an excellent answer to the Easter dinner. And if there is to be company for dinner, or Sunday evening supper, what to have that won't be too expensive will be easily answered by this fine, attractive buy of turkey meat. And why? The turkey crop is large, which automatically makes the prices lower; the quality is unusually fine.

The process of roasting, identical with that of other meats, is so easy that the most inexperienced or youngest cook can turn out a perfect bird. The equipment is simple—an open pan and one-half to an inch rack to hold the bird away from the bottom of the pan. A shallow dripping pan is excellent, or the regular roaster (without its cover) may be used.

ROASTING TURKEY

Prepare the bird in advance to ease the peak of the day's load. Rub salt (½ teaspoon per pound of bird) thoroughly on inside. Stuff and let stand, so dressing will flavor the bird. Lay stuffed, trussed bird on the rack. Brush all over with melted fat. Lay over it a fat-moistened cloth. This holds the moisture in the meat and less fat is needed for basting. Baste over the cloth with fat from the bottom of the pan, or extra if needed. Remove cloth toward the end of the cooking time so bird will cook to a rich, golden brown, if it has not browned sufficiently.

By this method of greasing the bird will have a nice glaze. If butter is preferred for the fat, it should be melted and allowed to stand long enough so that the curd with the salt settles to the bottom; then the clear yellow oil at the top should be used. Salt tends to blister the skin.

WATCH TEMPERATURE

In general, the larger the bird, the lower the temperature. If the bird is chilled, it should be removed from the refrigerator in advance of roasting, to warm to room temperature—or more time in the oven should be allowed. So, if you would let these economical turkeys roast to the very epitome of flavor, juiciness and tenderness, use a constant low temperature, 250 deg. F. to 300 deg. F., about 15 minutes per pound.

It is good planning to have the bird oasted and ready for the table about a half-hour before serving. When done, it can be transfered to the platter, and gravy made in the pan without rush and confusion. Furthermore, the carver will appreciate having a bird to carve that has lost some of its steaming oven heat.

A yellow, moist, fluffy dressing is a proper filling for the Easter bird and t recipe for such a bird is

STANDARD DRESSING
(For a 16-pound bird)

1½ lb. loaf day-old bread
½ to 1 lb. butter
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
¾ cup minced onion
4 eggs, well beaten

Remove crusts, if desired; cut bread into 1-inch cubes and drop into a large mixing bowl. Cut butter into dice, about ¾-inch. Add remaining ingredients to bread and toss all together, using two forks or hands.

To serve with the turkey course, try baked sweet potatoes, asparagus with Hollandaise sauce, a simple vegetable salad, if it seems necessary, and, of course, cranberry jelly.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

½ cup butter
1½ tbsp. lemon juice
3 egg yolks, well beaten
Dash of salt
Dash of cayenne

Divide butter into three pieces; put one piece in top of small double boiler, add lemon juice and egg yolks. Place over hot water (not boiling) and cook slowly, beating constantly with wire whisk. When butter is melted, add second piece of butter and, as mixture thickens, add the third piece and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove immediately from water, add salt and cayenne, and serve at once. Serve with vegetables, fish and shell fish. If sauce has a tendency to curdle add hot water by the teaspoon, stirring vigorously. Makes ¾ cup sauce.

Smart Set Fashions

Look to Your Lapels

By ANNICE BRINK

THE MOST FASCINATING gadgets we ever did see are appearing on the lapels of smart-setter's suits this year! Last season we felt that it went too far, what with carrying around pairs of boots and grotesque articles of as sundry kinds on our coat fronts, but this year the trinkets are more decorative, more original and much more good-looking.

Gold, silver and semi-precious stones, as well as delicately enamelled and filagreed metals, are being used to fashion all sorts of amusing charms to set off our spring suits and coats.

Old-fashioned lockets, or modern reproductions of them, are very good this year. One of the most charming has old-type script initials on its chaste front and is suspended from a pair of lovely gold hands in either gold or sterling, with scarlet-tipped nails for the modern touch.

Another charm of great dignity is a daintily wrought old watch-charm with initials within a gold circle; this hangs from the Fleur-de-lis which used to support ladies' watches when they were pinned primly to the bosom. Or you can have the same charm in a larger size with a prancing sea-horse for a pin.

Most unusual of all are the "dinnerware" accessories. Marion Weeber, American artist, has designed ceramic charms which are authentic copies of real old china. Little service plates, faithful in every detail to expensive tableware; tiny gold cups, knives, forks and spoons may be strung on a gold chain for a bracelet or necklace, or suspended from a larger spoon for a lapel ornament.

JUST A COUPLE of gal pals in their new careless tweeds . . . screen star Barbara Stanwyck and her make-up girl, Dot Ponddell . . . one of her closest friends . . . wear the new man-tailored suits with longer coats and lots of real pockets. Both girls are wearing lapel gadgets, Barbara's a bouquet of gold and jewels, Dot's an old gold mandarin's head with clinking Chinese coins.

WALNUT-DATE SLICES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

1 c. shortening
2 c. dark-brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
3 1-3 c. sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. vanilla extract
1 lb. pitted dates
⅔ c. orange juice
2 tbsp. honey
English walnut halves

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten eggs, and beat well. Gradually add the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt, and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla. Form into two rolls 3 in. in diameter, wrap in waxed paper, and chill overnight in refrigerator. Cook the dates and orange juice in the top of a double boiler until they become a soft mass; stir in the honey; and cool. Cut the chilled cookie dough into thin slices, and place slices on a greased cookie sheet. Spread each slice with filling and place a walnut half in center. Bake 12 to 15 min.

SERVE with thin bread and butter sandwiches, jellied fruit salad and hot tea for an afternoon party.

JELLIED HEARTS

1 pkg. cherry jello
1 cup hot water
1 cup maraschino cherry juice (add cold water if there is not enough juice)
1 cup maraschino cherries

Pour liquid over contents of package. Stir until completely dissolved. Add cherries. Pour into mold and let chill until thickened but not stiff. Then fold over and over to distribute cherries. Pour into heart-shaped molds, let chill until firm. Unmold and garnish around edge with sweetened whipped cream in a pastry tube. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Wears Out Her Welcome

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 17 years, and my problem is about my chum. She is 21 years old. We've been chumming around together for four years. It started when my mother died, and this girl came over to help me with the housework, and then she'd stay all night.

Finally I got tired of having her around all day and told her so, but she still comes every evening and it gets terribly boring and tiresome to have to talk to her all the time.

She always wants to go everywhere I go, and even stays when my boy friend comes over. I hate to tell her to go home, but I do wish she would. Please tell me what to do to make her understand that she ought to have boy and girl friends besides just me. Thank you. LOU.

When a person becomes such a bore as this girl has become, one has to take matters in hand. Write her a note and tell her you are sorry not to be able to see her on a certain evening as you have an engagement. And unless she has the hide of a rhinocerous she'll understand she is unwelcome.

WHILE YOU ENJOY FINEST MODERN FUEL AT NEW LOW GAS RATE

Now you can be thrifty by using more gas. That sounds hard to do, but it makes mighty good sense when you know why —

- If you are now using gas for cooking only, by adding gas refrigeration or gas water heating you quickly reach the point where (after 2,000 cu. ft. per month) gas is only 8c per 100 cu. ft. instead of 10c.
- That is a reduction of 20%, or 1/5, in the unit price for additional gas. It means 20c saved in every $1.
- So when you add a second or third gas service in your home, you get fuel for them at a bargain rate . . . plus the added comfort, convenience, and better health the extra uses bring to you and your whole family.
- Silent gas refrigeration is unequalled for efficiency, economy, and long life. Only automatic gas water heating gives you all the just-right hot water you want day or night at the turn of the faucet. Add these to your plan for happier, modern living and enjoy more value for your money, too.

Turkey Makes a Tempting Easter Dinner

By MARTHA LEE

TANTALIZING odors of hot turkey, fine quality birds, roasted to a tempting succulence and tenderness. That will be an excellent answer to the Easter dinner. And if there is to be company for dinner, or Sunday evening supper, what to have that won't be too expensive will be easily answered by this fine, attractive buy of turkey meat. And why? The turkey crop is large, which automatically makes the prices lower; the quality is unusually fine.

The process of roasting, identical with that of other meats, is so easy that the most inexperienced or youngest cook can turn out a perfect bird. The equipment is simple—an open pan and one-half to an inch rack to hold the bird away from the bottom of the pan. A shallow dripping pan is excellent, or the regular roaster (without its cover) may be used.

ROASTING TURKEY

Prepare the bird in advance to ease the peak of the day's load. Rub salt (¼ teaspoon per pound of bird) thoroughly on inside. Stuff and let stand, so dressing will flavor the bird. Lay stuffed, trussed bird on the rack. Brush all over with melted fat. Lay over it a fat-moistened cloth. This holds the moisture in the meat and less fat is needed for basting. Baste over the cloth with fat from the bottom of the pan, or extra if needed. Remove cloth toward the end of the cooking time so bird will cook to a rich, golden brown, if it has not browned sufficiently.

By this method of greasing the bird will have a nice glaze. If butter is preferred for the fat, it should be melted and allowed to stand long enough so that the curd with the salt settles to the bottom; then the clear yellow oil at the top should be used. Salt tends to blister the skin.

WATCH TEMPERATURE

In general, the larger the bird, the lower the temperature. If the bird is chilled, it should be removed from the refrigerator in advance of roasting, to warm to room temperature—or more time in the oven should be allowed. So, if you would let these economical turkeys roast to the very epitome of flavor, juiciness and tenderness, use a constant low temperature, 250 deg. F. to 300 deg. F, about 15 minutes per pound.

It is good planning to have the bird roasted and ready for the table about a half-hour before serving. When done, it can be transfered to the platter, and gravy made in the pan without rush and confusion. Furthermore, the carver will appreciate having a bird to carve that has lost some of its steaming oven heat.

A yellow, moist, fluffy dressing is a proper filling for the Easter bird and the recipe for such a bird is:

STANDARD DRESSING
(For a 16-pound bird)

1½ lb. loaf day-old bread
½ to 1 lb. butter
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
¼ cup minced onion
4 eggs, well beaten

Remove crusts, if desired; cut bread into 1-inch cubes and drop into a large mixing bowl. Cut butter into dice, about ¾-inch. Add remaining ingredients to bread and toss all together, using two forks or hands.

To serve with the turkey course, try baked sweet potatoes, asparagus with Hollandaise sauce, a simple vegetable salad, if it seems necessary, and, for course, cranberry jelly.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

1½ tbsp. lemon juice
3 egg yolks, well beaten
Dash of salt
Dash of cayenne

Divide butter into three pieces; put one piece in top of small double boiler, add lemon juice and egg yolks. Place over hot water (not boiling) and cook slowly, beating constantly with wire whisk. When butter is melted, add second piece of butter and, as mixture thickens, add the third piece and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove immediately from water, add salt and cayenne, and serve at once. Serve with vegetables, fish and shell fish. If sauce has a tendency to curdle add hot water by the teaspoon, stirring vigorously. Makes ¾ cup sauce.

Smart Set Fashions

By ANNICE BRINK

THE MOST FASCINATING gadgets we ever did see are appearing on the lapels of smart-setter's suits this year! Last season we felt that it went too far what with carrying around pairs of boots and grotesque articles of as sundry kinds on our coat fronts, but this year the trinkets are more decorative, more original and much more good-looking.

Gold, silver and semi-precious stones, as well as delicately enamelled and filagreed metals, are being used to fashion all sorts of amusing charms to set off our spring suits and coats.

Old-fashioned lockets, or modern reproductions of them, are very good this year. One of the most charming has old-type script initials on its chaste front and is suspended from a pair of lovely gold hands in either gold or sterling, with scarlet-tipped nails for the modern touch.

Another charm of great dignity is a daintily wrought old watch-charm with initials within a gold circle; this hangs from the Fleur-de-lis which used to support ladies' watches when they were pinned primly to the bosom. Or you can have the same charm in a larger size with a prancing sea-horse for a pin.

Most unusual of all are the "dinnerware" accessories. Marion Weeber, American artist, has designed ceramic charms which are authentic copies of real old china. Little service plates, faithful in every detail to expensive tableware; tiny gold cups, knives, forks and spoons may be strung on a gold chain for a bracelet or necklace, or suspended from a larger spoon for a lapel ornament.

WALNUT-DATE SLICES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

1 c. shortening
2 c. dark-brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
3 1-3 c. sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. vanilla extract
1 lb. pitted dates
½ c. orange juice
2 tbsp. honey
English walnut halves

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten eggs, and beat well. Gradually add the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt, and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla. Form into two rolls 3 in. in diameter, wrap in waxed paper, and chill overnight in refrigerator. Cook the dates and orange juice in the top of a double boiler until they become a soft mass; stir in the honey; and cool. Cut the chilled cookie dough into thin slices and place slices on a greased cookie sheet. Spread each slice with filling and place a walnut half in center. Bake 12 to 15 min. SERVE with thin bread and butter sandwiches, jellied fruit salad and hot tea for an afternoon party.

JELLIED HEARTS

1 pkg. cherry jello
1 cup hot water
1 cup maraschino cherry juice (add cold water if there is not enough juice)
1 cup maraschino cherries

Pour liquid over contents of package. Stir until completely dissolved. Add cherries. Pour into mold and let chill until thickened but not stiff. Then fold over and over to distribute cherries. Pour into heart-shaped molds, let chill until firm. Unmold and garnish around edge with sweetened whipped cream in a pastry tube. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Wears Out Her Welcome

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 17 years, and my problem is about my chum. She is 21 years old. We've been chumming around together for four years. It started when my mother died, and this girl came over to help me with the housework, and then she'd stay all night.

Finally I got tired of having her around all day and told her so, but she still comes every evening and it gets terribly boring and tiresome to have to talk to her all the time.

She always wants to go everywhere I go, and even stays when my boy friend comes over. I hate to tell her to go home, but I do wish she would. Please tell me what to do to make her understand that she ought to have boy and girl friends besides just me. Thank you. LOU.

When a person becomes such a bore as this girl has become, one has to take matters in hand. Write her a note and tell her you are sorry not to be able to see her on a certain evening as you have an engagement. And unless she has the hide of a rhinoceros she'll understand she is unwelcome.

WHILE YOU ENJOY FINEST MODERN FUEL AT NEW LOW GAS RATE

Now you can be thrifty by using more gas. That sounds hard to do, but it makes mighty good sense when you know why —

- If you are now using gas for cooking only, by adding gas refrigeration or gas water heating you quickly reach the point where (after 2,000 cu. ft. per month) gas is only 8c per 100 cu. ft. instead of 10c.
- That is a reduction of 20%, or 1/5, in the unit price for additional gas. It means 20c saved in every $1.
- So when you add a second or third gas service in your home, you get fuel for them at a bargain rate . . . plus the added comfort, convenience, and better health the extra uses bring to you and your whole family.
- Silent gas refrigeration is unequalled for efficiency, economy, and long life. Only automatic gas water heating gives you all the just-right hot water you want day or night at the turn of the faucet. Add these to your plan for happier, modern living and enjoy more value for your money, too.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY WOMEN who have served on committees and experienced all the trials and tribulations of arranging charity benefit affairs got a big kick out of the various committee women in "An International Incident," the new comedy in which Ethel Barrymore is starring at the Wilbur Theater.

Miss Barrymore is a British lecturer in the play . . . and the various groups she meets in the different cities of her American tour are amusing caricatures of the type to be found on almost every women's committee.

The subject of the play is so timely that the discussion of whether or not British lecturers should be allowed to speak in this country undoubtedly brought back memories of nightmares to the committee which presented Alfred Duff Cooper at Symphony Hall a few months ago.

Mrs. Gardiner Fiske, who has served on many, many of Boston's benefit committees, is still saying "That woman reminds me of so and so" . . . or "When she said that she was just like so and so on such and such a committee" . . . Mr. and Mrs. Fiske enjoyed the show from 'way down front and chatted at intermission with Mrs. William B. Long and her daughter, Polly . . . A fluffy silver fox jacket and round muff completed Mrs. Fiske's modish moss green dinner gown which had a pleated skirt and fitted jacket trimmed with trapunto work.

Evening Gown of Flowered Print

POLLY LONG, sporting a becoming new hair do (her usually fluffy locks were pulled back into a knot at the nape of her neck) wore a spring-like flowered print evening gown . . . and her mother chose a black dinner gown with crisp white organdie ruffles around the neck.

Turquoise slippers and matching bow in her blonde hair added a colorful touch to Elizabeth Motley's violet gown . . . She attended in a foursome with Olivia Ames and a couple of Harvardians . . . Elizabeth Jenney and her beau made their way through the maize of scenery and wings to visit backstage between the acts.

Though she has read volumes about Ethel Barrymore, Baroness Von Nidda of Chestnut Hill, who until recently lived in London, was seeing the famous actress for the first time on the stage . . . She and the Baron were in a foursome with Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Griswold.

First nighters also included Mrs. B. Wendell Soule, Paul Killiam, Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French, Mrs. William Danforth, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Nelson and Olive Perry who had two escorts . . .

Winchester Circle Plans Dance

CHILLY WINDS still blow and soiled heaps of snow still edge the roadways . . . but when committees plan affairs at summer resorts it's just as sure a sign as the first robin that spring is in the offing.

Mrs. John L. Coon, Jr., and Miss Frances Pierce are co-chairmen of the group planning the spring dinner dance of the Winchester Junior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League . . . which will take place at Seiti's Ten Acres in Wayland, April 11 . . . two days before Ten Acres officially opens for the season.

Mrs. Leslie York and Miss Mildred Johnson are members of the dance committee and Mrs. Charles M. Vanner chairman of publicity . . . Mrs. Robert Smith, as chairman of the ticket committee is being assisted by Mrs. Willard Slagle, Miss Christine Craven, Miss Elizabeth Cooper, Mrs. Lawrence Palmer, Mrs. Benjamin Dorman and Mrs. Lester R. THE HOSPITAL

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

By OLGA L. ROSMANITH

THE patient in room eighteen was Mrs. Ellen Eddy. She was being conditioned to face a dangerous operation because even the rich can be under-nourished. The surgeon gaily told her he was giving her a week's grace to repent of her sins.

Grace Benedict, the nurse, thought Mrs. Eddy was a sweet old lady. She gave no trouble at all and did everything she was told—except eat all that was put before her. Mrs. Eddy, however, with nothing to do for days and nights but lie in her high, white bed and read and eat and sleep and think, spent too much of the time thinking.

The Principal Character In "Hospital"

MRS. EDDY, a wealthy widow, who, while in a hospital awaiting a very serious operation, brings herself to believe she has but one week to live. She can think of no pleasures—only regrets.

She had been a widow so long that she did not think of herself as a married woman. Her husband had left her a rich woman and this had seemed marvelous after her first sharp grief had dulled into affectionate memory. But it had made her into a lonely woman by separating her from her family. Her closest friends now were her Cairn terrier, her black Manx cat, her butler and Ida, her personal maid. Her first day in hospital Mrs. Eddy worried about how her dog and cat were getting on without her. She forgot all about them on the second day.

That day the sky was obscured by thick, low-hanging clouds. The small, bare room was lit by a pink-shaded bedside lamp, but the warm glow did not cheer Mrs. Eddy. She looked out at the frowning sky and knew suddenly that her life was over. She was going to die under the surgeon's knife. She knew she had six days left in which to prepare for death.

At 11 in the morning Ida called with news of the household. She was not typical of the smart servants who called at the hospital on their rich, ailing employers. She was a dowdy, middle-aged woman, short of breath, good-natured and easily flustered.

Mrs. Eddy cut short the details about the housecleaning which would opportunely take place in her absence, gave Ida the key of her wall-safe under her husband's portrait and instructions to bring her wrapping paper, fine string, writing materials and certain of the safe's contents. She lay with her eyes closed and planned what she was going to do while Ida went on her errand.

MRS. EDDY GETS BUSY

The imminence of death did not frighten her because her soul was as undernourished as her body. She had never had children. She knew now that a healthy bank balance had value only in so far as its owner used it to make contact with human life. Fool that I am, she thought, I have let it stand as a wall between me and all the things I really wanted. Naturally, her relatives had rallied round her at her husband's death eager to console her. She saw it was natural now. But at the time she had antagonized them one by one. She thought they wanted her money—or at least a share of it. They were all more or less struggling. The young ones aspiring to places in the sun. The elder ones struggling to make ends meet. Waiting their chance to make use of me, she had thought then.

The piano lessons for the grave, talented little Michael, the dancing for wilful, red-headed Margery, the medical course for the valiant Paul who was working his way through college and overtaxing his strength, the year in the desert for Amy's husband to strengthen his weak lungs. What better things could some of her money have bought?

Well, they would have it very soon now. It was divided fairly between them all in cold terms of a very formal will. Ellen Eddy's fury with herself now was too terrible for sentimental tears. She saw the self-centered years behind her as empty salt-marshes where nothing green could flourish.

The nurse entered the room and announced that Ida had come back. Ida came in and the nurse left them alone. "Now, Ida," said Mrs. Eddy, "I'm going to tie up these packages and address them and you're going to send them off by registered mail when it's all over. You can come back and get them this time tomorrow. Death is nothing to get excited about. Sooner or later we all have to die."

Ida looked horrified and frightened. "Oh no, Ma'm. Don't talk like that. Why, the doctor told me himself you'd be back in a month, stronger than you'd ever been."

The old lady smiled as if Ida were the one to be comforted. She could not discuss her knowledge with anyone. "Go along now, Ida, and get on with your work. I have work to do too."

It was twelve now and the trays were coming up from the diet kitchen. Miss Benedict got her patient's, checked it over with the surgeon's list and fixed it on the rubber-wheeled bed-table. Mrs. Eddy tasted everything and drank all the weak tea allowed her. She refused to settle down for a nap afterward. All afternoon she sat up before the bed-table writing letters and tying them up with the little packages. "My Dear Margery:

"I want you to have these jade ornaments and wear them because they will look stunning with your lovely red hair. Don't be afraid to wear them, because they are rare and beautiful. Enjoy them. Good things have no life if they are not used and enjoyed.

"Give notice at your office. Business life is not for you. You were born to dance. I am feeling happy right now because I am going to make dancing possible for you. Be quick. Sixteen is almost too late. You should study while you're young. That's all."

Mrs. Eddy exhibited the stubborn streak which was hidden under the gentle exterior of a dear old lady.

Mrs. Eddy paused and read what she had written. Then she added while a blush tinged her wrinkled cheeks, "Remember me with love."

That package tied up and addressed, she put together a miniature framed in pearls, a multiple necklace of seven strands of small pearls held by a diamond and ruby clasp and an antique ring set with a diamond rimmed crystal over a plait of hair.

"Dear Lucy:

"It is almost too much to ask you to forgive a selfish and blind old woman, but I do ask you. I have been punished for what I've done. You have been hurt, but you have had the happiness of your family. I have been lonely and I have missed you, Lucy, most of all.

"I want you to have things because they belonged to Mother. Enjoy them and wear them. You don't know how much I wish I had the courage to ask you to come and see me before I go. I deserve it. Yes, I'm darned well ashamed of myself."

Mrs. Eddy fastened up that package quickly lest she should change her mind. Asking pardon of her sister was a sour piece of humble pie. Her sister was a high-spirited red-head like young Margery, her daughter. After what Mrs. Eddy had said to her about the way she brought up her children, Lucy would be unlikely to forgive.

Miss Benedict protested at teatime that it was her responsibility to see that her patient had sleep, or at least rest. Mrs. Eddy exhibited the stubborn streak which was hidden under the gentle exterior of a dear old lady. She would finish these letters while she was in the mood for them, otherwise they would never be done. She paused to drink more weak tea. After that she went right on again. There were 11 packages of assorted shapes and sizes when she had finished.

Ida came as instructed and took them away, promising tearfully to make no mistake about them. There were five days left now. Five precious days of life. But worth nothing to Mrs. Eddy because nobody wanted her, nobody needed her. Too late now to discover she was wrong to think that money cut her off from disinterested friendship Money, rightly used, could have bought some honest friends. Her family had shown clearly enough that, money or no money, without mutual trust in each other's motives, they did not want her. I could have been so happy, she tortured herself, but I'm the loneliest woman in the world.

The first blizzard of winter came down on the day before the operation. Mrs. Eddy lay still and almost lifeless already watching the whirling white flakes. Miss Benedict was a cheery, practical girl and she tried to make her patient laugh. Her cheerfulness jarred on Mrs. Eddy's mood. She pretended to be asleep.

Early in the morning they came for her. Rolled her in a soft blanket and lifted her on to a wheeled stretcher for her journey to the operating room. Miss Benedict lifted the blanket and gave her an injection. Drowsiness swept over her like a warm incoming tide. She looked round the room before her eyelids fell.

She was back in her familiar white bed when she woke up. It was dusk and the room was curiously shadowed because the lamp was on the floor. Miss Benedict was sitting beside her watching for her to open her eyes.

"NOT DEAD?"

"That's fine. You're going to be all right," said the nurse softly.

Mrs. Eddy was incredulous. "So I'm not dead? Is it all over?"

She could see better now and she saw Miss Benedict was smiling. "You're far from dead. Good for another 30 years or more, maybe. Do you feel any pain? Are you comfortable?"

"No pain at all, thank you."

"That's right. Tell me if you do. I have everything you need. You don't have to feel any."

Another nurse came in and took Miss Benedict's place. Outside the door there was a whispered consultation. Then the surgeon entered softly, followed by a woman. "You may speak," he said, "only one sentence and only half a minute."

Mrs. Eddy saw her sister Lucy bend over her and heard her say—"Get well quickly, Ellen. We need you. We love you." Then Lucy was silently hustled away again.

When Ida was allowed to see her mistress at last, she came in tears, expecting to be fired. "I was so confused M'am. I took the packages to the post office the day before it all happened."

Mrs Eddy laughed gleefully. Her room was full of flowers and her dressing table covered with letters. Life was waiting for her in full measure when she was strong enough to leave the hospital.

"Don't worry, Ida. There will be a lot more work in the house from now on which you have brought on yourself, so I need not censure your blundering."

Ida beamed. She liked life in a house too, and work had no terrors for her. "All right, Ma'm. Just so long as you don't fire me."

I CAME TO THE MUSEUM LOOKING FOR SONNY. I SEARCHED EVERYWHERE, THEN I THOUGHT YOU MIGHT BE DOWN HERE!
AND LUCKY FOR US YOU DID! LET'S GET OUT!

I DON'T UNDERSTAND -- THE DOOR WAS LOCKED FROM THE OUTSIDE! WHO DID IT?
WE'D LIKE TO KNOW! SMELL THAT GAS? AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO KILL US!

Hmm -- THAT GAS ODOR IS FAMILIAR! IT'S THE SAME DEADLY GAS THAT IS SOMETIMES FOUND IN THE ANCIENT MUMMY CHAMBERS OF THE PYRAMIDS!

AUSTEN LAKE SAYS:

Brimsek Could Use Shore on Defense

By AUSTEN LAKE

ART ROSS CLIPPED HIS CUTICLE as the Bruins' Pullman rolled through New England's snow patches, its wheels seeming to click "On-the-chin . . . on-the-chin!"

AUSTEN LAKE

Cooney Weiland gnawed thoughtfully at the lining of his lips, little quotation marks (") between his eyes. The Bruins, coatless and suspendered, played morbidly at fan-tan or wrinkled their noses over news-resumes of Tuesday's game. A few just dreamed on the passing scenery.

Gone was Monday's carnival spirit with which our champion ice-artisans had ridden to the New York game. From their vice-president to the sub-assistant muscle rubber the Bruins were silent—sullenly so, men who had a load of wonder on their minds. If that state of mind could be crystallized in a single question it would have been, "Could we be that bad or are the Rangers that good?"

After the manner of all locker room lawyers who claim everything and concede nothing, the rival rinkleaders had opposite opinions. For after Tuesday's game Lester Patrick had lolled back with an expression of a cat who had just swallowed a canary. "Unbeatable!" he smugged. "Perfect game! Perfect team!" Like a victrola record on which the needle had stuck, he kept repeating, "Unbeatable . . . unbeatable."

But Ross and Weiland took the other viewpoint. "Bad hockey," said Ross. "Punk! We licked ourselves!"

SOMEWHERE BETWEEN THESE OPPOSITE poles of thought lies a meridian of truth. True, the Bruins had a faint piscatorial aroma—a trace of stale haddock. But the Rangers were supreme—a pugnacious set who lured our honey bears into their traps and then tripped the trigger. They had more of everything—energy, art and muscle. The Bruins simply came gradually apart—as dull, slow and stupid as they had looked last year when the Rangers overcame a three-game lead and then dropped the big money-game in the 48th minute of overtime. (Remember Mel Hill's $50,000 putt?)

One thing is hard to swallow, i. e., how a Grade A unit like the Bruins, 1940 winner of the Wales Cup and the world's top team for two seasons, could let two of Tuesday's goals leak in while they were full strength and the Rangers were short-handed. And how does Uncle Arthur explain that? He doesn't! He simply pinches his nostrils 'twixt thumb and forefinger and says "Phooie!"

Luck? No!—Logic! For the Rangers didn't crawl into their defensive shells when they found themselves outmanned—once with Babe Pratt off the ice and once when Muzz Patrick did a stretch. They went to work on the slow and sleepy Bruins like a Finn ski patrol on a Russian tractor train—making up in extra energies what they lacked in man power. The result was like hitting the jackpot for a hatful of quarters. "Phooie!" says Ross. "We played it that way," says Patrick. And there's two more poles of opposite opinion!

WHAT PLANS FOR TONIGHT? What change in system to meet what Patrick calls his "semi-streamlined" attack? Ross says tartly, "None! Same game, same players." No magic up his sleeve!

Surprisingly, the Bruins and Rangers came out of Tuesday's game unscathed except for a few routine welts and scrapes. The game was rough and, from the Bruins' attitude, I surmise that

Grim Bruins Battle To Tie Ranger Series

Tonight figures to be the turning point in the hopes of the baffled Bruins. Back on their home ice after a 4 to 0 humiliation in the opening game of their Stanley Cup defense, Tuesday night, the B's are now strictly on the defensive.

HE LEADS—And the Bruins follow Capt. Dit Clapper tonight against the Rangers in the Garden. Dit was photoed here as he relaxed this morning, in Boston home. Dit's duelling with Capt. Art Coulter of the Rangers featured opening game of series.

It is the contention of both Manager Art Ross and Coach Cooney Wieland that the Rangers were not as great as the reports from New York relate.

Wieland insists that the game was the worst the Bruins have played this year and that the Blue Shirts were just so "hot" that nothing could fail.

This second game in series A this evening, a series that is slated to continue until one team wins four decisions, should tell the story to the Garden packed house of close to 17,000.

If the Rangers again triumph in anywhere near the decisive fashion that they enjoyed in the opener, the Patrickmen can carry out the boast of Coach Frank Boucher and take four in a row.

BRUINS NEED WIN

A Bruins win would restore morale and the fact that the third game is also carded here for Sunday night would be of great help.

If the Bruins can take these next two, they can win the series. A loss in either would be bad.

And it is because of this, that the Bruins are going to forget the tactics they employed early in the opener and get right after those Blue Shirts from the first whistle. If certain improvements are shown, the B's will be in there scrapping for a victory cause.

RANGERS' DEFENSE GREAT

The Rangers marked superiority in the first affair was on defense. Those four big Patrickmen just mowed down the three Boston lines with such monotonous regularity that Mike Costello, the press gate custodian at the Garden, could have substituted for Davey Kerr in the

Nurmi Certain Helsinki Site Of Olympics

DETROIT, March 21 (INS)—In spite of the European war, the 1940 Olympics will be held in Helsinki, Paavo Nurmi, the flying Finn of the twenties asserted today.

"I know what I'm talking about," Nurmi insisted. "They're already talking about the Olympic meeting and making plans for it at home. It will be held and you can bet every penny you have on it."

Nurmi, touring the United States with his protege, Taisto Maki, for the benefit of their war torn homeland, predicted Maki would "crack a lot more records at the Olympic meeting."

HOSE FIND HAILS FROM HOOPER'S COAST COLLEGE

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21—St. Mary's College gave Harry Hooper and Duffy Lewis to the Red Sox in the dear, dead days and it seems as if the California institution has sent up another embryonic star to the Sox in Earl Johnson, 20-year-old southpaw pitcher.

Johnson stands 6-1 and weighs 175 and reminds the old 'timers of Ray Collins in action. He has that fluidity of motion that stamps him as a "natural." And above all, he has rare control for one of his years.

SHOWS COURAGE

He looked immense in the intra-squad game here, never hesitatin, to throw his curve ball in the clutch. He controls his curve bet ter than his fast ball, he says.

Because of his extraordinary control, the kid will cut a couple of years off his climb to major league stardom.

Frank Dasso, Al Brazle and other rookies have more stuff on the ball, but they can't get that important pitch through there when it counts like Johnson does.

The good looking youth attended Ballard High school in Seattle Washington, but did little pitching there. He hit the ball so hard and often that he was used at first base. In his junior year he compiled the phenomenal batting average of .475.

STARTED LATE

He didn't start to pitch until his senior year, but he learned so quickly that he was named to the All America nine which performed in the national sempro tournament at Wichita in 1937.

O'hers who participated in the same tournament were Fred Hutchinson, now of the Tigers, and Tom Fine, another Red Sox rookie pitcher.

LIKES SOX COACHES

Johnson is greatly impressed with the treatment recorded him by the Red Sox coaches

"We had a young fellow in our town who got a trial with a Coast League club two years ago," said Johnson. "The older pitchers got him the first day, and told him to bear down. 'You can pitch faster than that kid they kept telling him.'

"As a result he ruined his arm, and he hasn't touched a ball since.

"I was expecting something like that. So I almost died when I asked Frank Shellenback a question the other day. He not only answered me civily, but he caught me for 20 minutes, teaching me how to improve my follow through, etc.

COACHES LIKE HIM

"And during it all he was watching my fast ball. Sometimes it 'takes off' and doesn't land where I want it to.

"He noticed it, and told me I could control it better if I changed my grip on the ball. He showed me a new grip, and it's working out fine. Now if I get that down as well as my curve ball, I'll be all set."

The coaches think just as much of the kid as he does of them, and predict a brilliant future for him.

It's almost expecting too much for him to stick his first time off a college campus, but you can bet he'll soon be a valued member of the club without spending too much time down on those Canton and Rocky Mount farms.

JINT BOSS SEES WILD N. L. RACE

NEW YORK, March 21 (INS) —"Any one of seven clubs can win the National League pennant and the race is going to be tighter than your hatband right down to the last putout—"

Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, here for a brief visit from his club's training quarters at Winter Haven, sized up the forthcoming baseball campaign today as a tough scramble and included his own team among the possibilities to take the championship.

In reply to a suggestion that it must look tough if the Giants can be given a chance he insisted that's the way it is. You can throw out only the Phillies as utterly hopeless, he said.

Stoneham expressed himself and Manager Bill Terry as so well pleased that they are not even looking for reinforcements.

CASEY SWITCHES FIELDING MARVEL TO MAKE HITTER

By BILL GRIMES

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21—During the three years he has been in organized baseball, Billy Wietelmann has been woefully weak with the bat. Afield, Billy makes plays with the best in the business but the magnates no longer go for the "good field, no can hit" type.

Since the Bees came here, Billy Wietelmann has devoted most of his time to fielding. On four or five occasions, Manager Casey Stengel has told Billy to toss his glove away and get a bat. "Ole Case" is perfectly satisfied that Wietelmann's defensive play is of major league caliber, and he knows that offensively Billy is "sugar bush."

Billy has so many weaknesses at the bat that Casey Stengel finally came to the conclusion that would take a couple of years to make the necessary corrections.

COULDNT IMPROVE

Apparently, Manager Stengel has been watching Wietelmann closer [illegible] suspected. He of[illegible], which he felt [illegible] and in fairness [illegible] st be stated that [illegible]ed to follow out the manager's advice. But, for some reason, Billy was unable to put Stengel's tips into execution.

Recently, Casey Stengel was sitting in the bleachers with Johnny Quinn during a morning batting practise session. After he had watched "Whitey" on three trips to the plate, Stengel called the youngster.

"Did you ever hit left handed?" asked Stengel.

"Yes, sir," replied Whitey. "When I was playing American Legion ball out in Zanesville, I was a left handed hitter."

"Ya, then why did you change?" queried Casey.

"Ah don't know. I just shifted around to the other side of the plate and started swinging."

TOUCHED UP BARNICLE

"Well, I think that you should try hitting left handed again," advised Manager Stengel. "Go up there and let me see how you look."

George Barnicle was pitching to the batters when Wietelmann stepped into the batter's box.

"Come on, quit your clowning," yelled Barnicle. "It's hot out here. Get around to the other side of the plate."

"Casey told me to hit this way," was Billy's comeback.

Just as soon as the other players saw Wietelmann batting left handed they stopped their pepper games.

"Whitey" surprised everyone, including himself by the way he connected with Barnicle's offerings. His form was a distinct improvement over that which he has batting right handed, for his head was still when he started his swings and he followed the balls with his eyes right over the plate. And he displayed more power, hitting line drives to right field and snapping outside pitches into left.

BANCROFT NO BETTER

"Listen, boy, you look all right," compliments Manager Stengel, "you really surprised me. And let me tell you something. Dave Bancroft, who played with me on the Giants and who later managed this club, couldn't hit any better than you can right handed. So he shifted and became a fine batter.

"You can do the same thing, if you'll work. I don't want you to try to hit left handed in any game I send you into but I do want you to practise for a half hour every day. It might take you a couple of years. Then again you might get it in one season. And from what you've just shown me, I think you can develop yourself into a good batter. In three years, you haven't gotten anywhere hitting right handed, so you don't stand to lose much through this experiment. And you know there are more right hand than left hand pitchers in baseball."

PRACTICES AN HOUR A DAY

Since his talk with Casey Stengel, Billy Wietelmann has been out at the ball park an hour or more before the other players. With Ralph May, Jr., son of the Bees' trainer, pitching, and Pat Ragu, Jimmy Bibber and the bat boys shagging, Billy has been hitting left-handed.

Billy Wietelmann probably will be retained by the Bees as one of the extra infielders. He's a very ambitious kid. He lives baseball, watches the moves and stances of the veterans and is all ears when any coach is explaining plays.

And, if he develops into a good left-hand hitter, Casey Stengel will have made another "sugar bush" into a major leaguer.

Delancy Back On Cards Roster

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Bill Delancy, former St. Louis Cardinal catcher who was forced by illness to take a recess from baseball in 1935, has scored the first success in his major league comeback.

The Cardinals announced last night that Delancy is a full-fledged member of the club. His contract will be purchased from Sacramento.

St. Louis also announced purchase of Outfielder Morris Jones from the New York Giants. He hit 308 with Jersey City last year.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

JOHN QUINN, secretary of the Bees, took the next seat to me in the club car as the Merchants Limited rushed on toward the bright lights of New York.

"I will not see much of New York on this trip," said John. "I am on my way to York, Pa., where the Bees will have a farm team this season."

Baseball farms have become as necessary to the success of a major league club as wheels are to an automobile.

Tom Yawkey for a time thought he could buy a pennant in the open market. After spending $4,000,000 Yawkey has decided he couldn't do as he wished, and has also gone for an elaborate farm system. The ball club that hopes to win a pennant must develop its own young stars. This is why the Yankees and Cardinals have done so well. They always have the needed young star ready to step into the regular lineup.

"When dad took over the Bees," said John Quinn, "we didn't have a single farm club, while we also lacked working agreements with minor league clubs. We had to get along as best we could with the players on hand.

"When we secured some farm clubs, we lacked players for them and any kind of a ball player could get a job with us.

"Times have changed. Our farm clubs are so well reinforced with reserves that a player has to show exceptional ability to get a job as a substitute."

New Boom for Minor League Baseball

JOHN QUINN said there was a new boom for minor league baseball.

"The greatest enthusiasm for baseball is in those towns that have been without the game for a dozen years," declared Quinn. "The important business interests and the general run of fans will do everything possible to assure the success of a club.

"We co-operate with the business interests which is the reason we do not play Saturday night baseball at Evansville, Ill. We do not wish to interfere with Saturday night shopping.

"Night baseball has been a help to the minor league clubs. People working in the day time now have a chance to see good baseball at night.

"I look for our Hartford club to become one of the strongest minor league clubs in the East. We now have plenty of available baseball timber, and will be able to furnish Hartford with star players.

"The strength of our farm clubs will give the Bees the needed replacements. Last season we were in difficulties when Cuccinello and Sisti were injured. Those mishaps put a hole in our infield that we couldn't fill.

"It will be a different story this season as we now have the needed replacements. With our farm clubs as feeders, the Bees will get stronger each year."

Major League Clubs Sign Up Young Stars

AS A RESULT of the extensive farm system, it is almost impossible to step out into the open baseball market and sign a star player. In most cases, all of the top flight youngsters are under contract with some major league farm club.

This is why Red Sox and Bees decided to build up farm systems of their own. For a time it would be possible to purchase veteran players, but none of the young stars were on the market. The clubs that were fortunate in controlling young players wanted them for their own use.

Charley Keller and "Flash" Gordon are products of the Yankee farm system. There are keen judges of ball players who contend that Keller is a more promising rookie than Ted Williams of the Red Sox. These persons will concede Williams' ability as a home-run hitter, and also give him credit for possessing an unusual amount of color, but in all-round ability they will insist that Keller leads the parade.

Keller proved himself a fine hitter when under fire in the 1939 Word Series. He is also a fast fielder, and an excellent base runner.

During the past few seasons there has been an open debate in baseball circles as to whether Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox is the equal of "Flash" Gordon as a fielder and as a batter. Gordon was held in reserve by the Yankees until needed.

One of the chief reasons for the success of the Yankees has been their ability to bob up with the needed star in an emergency.

When Babe Ruth ended his career as a headliner it was almost unreasonable to suppose it would be possible to replace the great slugger. Joe McCarthy then came up with Joe DiMaggio.

The farms in time may be the salvation of the Red Sox and Bees.

Turning Point?

Bruins Bid To Tie Series

New York nets and the outcome would have been the same.

Kerr was so well protected by his defensemen and the back checking of the three Ranger lines that he had one difficult save all night.

FAIL IN DEFENSE

Brimsek, on the other hand, had so little help that it was little short of a miracle that the Rangers did not come home on top by double that score.

The only hopeful sign out of the game was that the Bruins could not possibly be as bad as they appeared Tuesday night.

After all, this club has won the National Hockey League championship and in their last three games with the Rangers before hitting the play-offs, they took two verdicts and deadlocked the other.

Because of this the fans refuse to give up on their heroes and close to 17,000 will jam the Garden to capacity tonight.

They still refuse to believe that the "Roughneck Line" of Phil Watson, Bryan Hextall and Dutch Hiller is superior to the Krauts.

They can't conceive of the "Bread Line" made up of the two Colvilles and Alex Shibicky outplaying the Cowley line.

FANS LOYAL

It may have happened in New York, but it won't occur in Boston, insist 17,000 staunch followers.

Boston will have to be shown that the Rangers are as much superior to the Buins as the last affair indicated.

Here's hoping the New Yorkers fail to prove their contention.

In the ten Stanley Cup play-off series the Bruins have seen, they have never dropped the opening game and then won the series . . . one encouraging factor, though is the fact that the Rossmen won four opening games in these 10 affairs and then lost out also so the chances of coming from behind are not impossible.

In five games against the Rangers in New York, Davey Kerr has held the Bruins to four goals . . . on the other hand, the Rangers have only beaten the B's one in Boston this year and since four games are carded at North Station, there is still hope.

Neil Colville gave Lynn Patrick's wife a blood transfusion last Sunday and Mrs. Patrick is greatly improved . . . Babe Pratt's wife gave birth to an 8½-pound baby girl the morning of the first playoff game . . . Art Coulter is easily the "bad man" of hockey—how he gets away with his holding and high sticking is one of the mysteries of hockey.

There seemed to be no signs of worry on the part of the Bruins during the train ride back to Boston yesterday . . they all felt they had an off night and still believe that they can win the series.

AUSTEN LAKE SAYS:

tonight's game will be rougher, with the top billing for pugnacity given to the serial feud between Dit Clapper and Art Coulter.

Coulter and Clapper get along like a mongoose and a cobra. For some reason they make each other's hackles rise. So the other evening when Dit clamped Art against the fence and froze the puck—legitimately, I thought—it acted like an engraved invitation to mayhem. Coulter waggled his large stern loose, wiggled his torso around and began pumping left and right-hand busts, with Dit stretching his neck away. Later when Referee Bill Stewart scooted up and shooed both boys to the cooler, Dit, ludicrously, refused to sit down on the same pew with Coulter until two burly John Laws clamped him down and sat with their paws on his shoulder. If it was an act it was a good one!

MAYBE IT'S A SOUR THING TO SAY after the Bruins' flashy spurt to the league peak, but the team misses the masterly defense tactics of old Eddie Shore—Eddie as he was at the peak of physical condition, not Eddie in his present antiquated state. For old Mr. Hockey was rarely tricked out of position as the Bruins' rear guard was fooled Tuesday. And, looking back a short 12 months, it seems evident that he made Brimsek, a truly great goalie, into the greater Mr. Zero that he was. And if that's heresy you can sue me.

What difference there is between Brimselk in '38-'39 and '39-'40 is the same difference in Davey Kerr during the same interval—better protection and less shots to kick at. Yet, for all the four Ranger goals of Tuesday night, Frank slapped down at least a half dozen shots that might logically have reached the fishnets. He ate a lot of rubber, and at the close of the game was limp from exhaustion and awash with perspiration, while Kerr, his Ranger vis a vis, still had most of his original starch.

Tonight, on home ice and amid Boston sympathies, the Bruins may rise from their ashes and square the series. If they don't there's apt to be a lot of behind-the-scene fuss. For the Bruins' office-hierarchy are ungracious losers and it doesn't take much to fill the air with verbal brickbats. In hockey, as in all professional sport, past victories are stale victories. It's the victories just ahead that balance the budget.

'Electric Eye' to Detect Fouls

DETROIT, March 21 (AP)—Use of the "electric eye" for detecting fouls will likely go into effect at the current American Bowling Congress championships here after the annual convention, scheduled for March 29.

Photo-electric equipment already has been installed in the division boards between each set of the 40 alleys, awaiting formal approval by the 1000 delegates who will attend the annual pow-wow. Selection of the site for the 1941 tournament, election of officers and the discussion of other playing rules also will come before the meeting.

The congress heretofore has failed to sanction mechanical devices for detecting fouls. For 39 years judges placed at both ends of the tournament alleys have been relied upon to see that the players did not step or slide over the black line separating the approaches from the alley bed.

The electric eye foul detector is said to be absolutely fool-proof and officials are confident it will be approved.

The "eye" is concealed in the dividing strip between the alleys. When the bowler moves across the foul line, a gong sounds and a red light flashes on at the pins.

Tobin Vetoes Council's Fee On Ice Games

Mayor Tobin today vetoed the city council's plan for fees on Sunday hockey games in Boston and substituted in its place a program of his own in which the fees would be half the ones the council proposed.

The council plan asked a $100 fee from Sept. 1 to Feb 28 and $500 the rest of the year on games played in the Garden; but just half those amounts on games in the Arena.

Mayor Tobin's plan suggests $700 fee from Oct. 20 to April 20 (the full hockey season) on games in the Garden, and $20 fee for the rest of the year. The cost would be half for Arena permits.

Tobin's plan will be sent to the council next week.

VITT THINKS INDIANS WILL BEAT OUT HOSE

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 21 (AP)—There is a popular baseball saying, tinted faintly with irony, that the Cleveland Indians always win the pennant this time of year.

Nevertheless, when Cleveland baseball writers greet visitors like money from home and demand to bet that the Indians finish ahead of the Boston Red Sox in the coming American League race, they at least arouse a suspicion that something might be going on here.

It isn't too difficult to discover what the boys are excited about. Manager Oscar Vitt admitted that they probably were thinking about his new keystone combination—Louis Boudreau at shortstop and Ray Mack at second.

GREAT STRETCH RUSH

This young pair joined the Indians from Buffalo last season and their performance was sensational. Inspired by their fielding, the Indians won 19 of their last 23 games to finish a fast closing third behind Boston.

"I guess the boys think that with Boudreau and Mack in there all the way we ought to beat the Red Sox this time," said Oscar. "I'll admit it looks like we've solved our biggest problem."

Boudreau is out at present, while Grimes is recovering from a recent knee operation, but Vitt expects both to be ready soon. Mack looks better in the field day after day, frequently making acrobatic stops as he gains confidence.

PITCHING GOOD

With Hal Trosky back on first and Ken Keltner at third, it looks like the Indians might finally have an infield to rival either the Yankees or the Red Sox. They still lack the batting power of either of their principal rivals, but their pitching is better than Boston's.

The Indians possess a sound outfield trio in Ben Chapman, Jeff Heath and Roy Weatherly, all potential .300 hitters, with Beau Bell in reserve. They have one acceptable catcher now in Rollie Hemsley, and will have another as soon as Frankie Pytlak comes to terms.

As long as Bob Feller and Mel Harder keep their health, the Indians will get superb pitching a big part of the time.

Oscar was asked if his club looked good enough to beat the Red Sox, then why mightn't it go right on and tumble the Yanks?

"Now, now," interrupted the Indian pilot. "Let's take 'em one at a time. Let's wait and see how Ruffing goes this year."

Red Defenseman Flies to R. I. For Tilt Tonight

PROVIDENCE, March 21 (AP)—Bill MacKenzie, pro hockey's commuting defenseman, reached here this morning after a night plane flight from Chicago to play with the Rhode Island Reds in the second International-American League series play-off game against the Indianapolis Capitals tonight.

MacKenzie has been expected back with the Reds from the Blackhawks for several days but was kept for Tuesday's game in Toronto. The Hawks' management freed him of Chicago duty yesterday.

Lever Brothers Sends Big Team To Bowling Epic

By PINFALL

Lever Brothers Co. stepped right into the bowling limelight this morning by entering 98 teams in the fifth annual American-Record-Advertiser diamond medal New England bowling championships, which open at the famed Huntington Club just one week from Saturday.

Bobby Carlin, youthful 21-year-old bowling secretary, forwarded 140 entries from the large Cambridge plant to set a new high in entrants from any one organization to date.

Chances are that many of the team men will roll singles and doubles, so that the entry list from the Lever Brothers will undoubtedly hit wel lover the 200 mark by the time the championships roll around.

The secretary is also optimistic over the possibility of one of these teams taking the championship and capturing five diamond medals plus the championship.

If Bobby Carlin has his wish, the Covo team will take the honors, for this is the quintet that Carlin does his bowling.

BOWLING FOR 12 YEARS

Although he is only 21, Bob has been bowling for 12 years and his average this year has been 95.6, which is consistent rolling in any league.

Carlin's great thrill came two years ago when he hit a spare in his last box to give the Covo team the Lever Brothers championship.

He would like nothing better than to anchor the Covos to the title and according to his way of figuring it can be done.

Carlin brought forth this interesting opinion:

40 PER CENT LUCK

"Bowling is 40 per cent luck, and because of this any team with fairly good bowlers needs only a share of the breaks to come home on top."

His viewpoint is shared by many and not without reason. After all, in the past four years of the American-Record-Advertiser New England championships, there has never been a successful title defender.

And since so many see bowling in the same light, the entry list for the championships keeps growings year after year.

Singles entry and double teams are plentiful. The amazing feature, though, has been the growth of group entries.

Business groups and clubs are sending in large batches daily.

The 140 sent by Lever Brothers is "tops" to date but even that figure may be beaten before the championships get under way a week from Saturday.

LAST RACE FOR GLENN AT SCENE OF 1ST WIN

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, whose record across the years ranks him as the greatest miler of all time, may wind up his indoor track career in an appropriate blaze of glory in the Chicago Relays Bankers Mile race Saturday night.

It was eight years ago, in this same event that Glenn first hit the invitational circuit, winning the mile title to open a brilliant track saga.

FACE FENSKE AGAIN

Now that he has announced his intention of retiring after the 1940 outdoor season, the remarkable Kansan may be running his final indoor mile Saturday—and conceivably could garnish this appearance with one of his greatest performances.

Cunningham will run the Bankers' mile against Charles (Chuck) Fenske, Wisconsin graduate student; Archie San Romani and Gene Venzke. That field shapes up as good enough to threaten records anywhere.

Racing on the speedy, kiln-dried spruce track at the International Amphitheater, it stands a chance of shattering Fenske's best time this season, 4:07.4—which he twice attained last month.

WON SEVEN STRAIGHT

Undoubtedly Cunningham will be the sentimental favorite Saturday, but records point to Fenske as the winner. The bespectacled Fenske ran third to Venzke and Cunningham last Jan. 13, then won seven straight mile races, setting new meet records in five. Cunningham was second in four of the seven, third once and fourth twice.

Cunningham's 4:04.4 mile at Dartmouth in 1938 was the fastest mile ever run. This winter he made his best time while finishing second to Fenske Feb. 3 in the Millrose games.

Hogan's Path Smoothed For Rise to Golf Peak

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21 (AP)—The path was smoothed today for Ben Hogan to turn what so far has been a promising golf career into a successful one with his first major tournament victory.

Ben himself had done the most vital smoothing by posting a record total of 133 for the first 36 holes of the North-South open championship. That gave him a working margin of s en shots as the reduced field went into today's closing round.

But tournament officials have sought to help him along in their own quiet fashion by placing him in the last three some to leave the starting tee. That means that all the other returns will be in when Hogan comes marching home, and there'll be no possibility of his losing the $1000 first money by not knowing what scores he has to beat to get it.

Everything, therefore, appeared up to Hogan. From theway he's played for two days, without ever a waver in his topnotch golf, there didn't seem a chance in a thousand that he'd fail to cash in.

When Benjamin fired his brilliant 66 in the first round on Tuesday, there were a few skeptics who claimed it was a "break," but Ben followed up with a five-under par 67 that left the crowd pop-eyed.

Still, you can't say that 66's and 67's are anything new in this 27-year-old pro's career. Biggest hitter for his weight in the game, Hogas has played 35 rounds of medal play since the first of the year. Thirteen times over that period he has gone in with scores of 69 or better.

Chief contenders today were Sam Snead and Johnny Revolta. They started seven shots back.

Artie Rooney Joins Pittsburgh Gridders

RALEIGH, N. C., March 21 (AP)—Little Artie Rooney, star back of North Carolina State teams for three years, said today he would join the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Pro Football League this fall. His cousin, Art Rooney, owns the Pirates.

Doyle Will Box In 118's Monday

Leather will be thrown with abandon Monday night at the Arena when the Irish-American A. A. sponsors one of its fight shows. It is an open meeting with leading ringmen from all sections of New England taking part, and is open to all reigstered boxers in the N. E. A. A. A. U.

There will be six classes with bouts in the 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds and heavyweight divisions.

The Irish-American club has set aside next Monday and the following week not only for the benefit of all boxers in New England but also as an opportunity for a workout for the N. E. champions who will compete in the big National boxing championships at the Garden, April 8, 9 and 10.

Entries already received include those of Vincent Doyle, Roxbury, Mass. state champion, and Phil Sheehan, Newburyport, in the 118 pounds; Joe Doucette, Lynn, and Alfred Sforga, Boston, in the 126 pounds; Henry Harrington, Allston, in the lightweight class; Tom Foley, Lynn; Charles Samara, Woburn, and Leo Stakenberg, North Randolph, 147 pounds.

Ex-Collegian Stars On Tiger Mound

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 21—To fortify their catching department since Joe Glenn has extended his holdout, the St. Louis Browns have signed George Susce, who was released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

ERNARDINO, Cal.—woes again have beset Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs. Clay Bryant, who pitched only 31 innings last year but was believed recovered from his lame arm, complained yesterday of a new soreness. Vance Page also showed up with a sore arm and asked to be excused from today's assignment against Pittsburgh. Rookies Jake Mooty and Vern Olsen have similar troubles.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—A few more stunts of the kind young Dick Conger has been pulling for the Detroit Tigers will make him a "spring sensation." Never in pro ball before, the west coast ex-collegian has pitched nine scoreless innings and allowed only two hits. He worked one hitless inning against the New York Giants yesterday. The same teams are scheduled again today with the veterans Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher on call for the Giants.

FT. MYERS, Fla.—A sensational relief hurler in 1038 and a complete flop in 1939, Johnn- Humphries to-relief hurler himself a candidate for regular startin- mound assignments with the Cleveland Indians this season.

In seven innings of exhibition game twirling, Humphries has allowed four hits, two bases on balls and has not been scored upon.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Dom DiMaggio is likely to be the only freshman wearing a Boston Red Sox uniform this season. Manager Joe Cronin, after looking over his rookies thoroughly, already has decided which will be included in the first squad cut this week for the Durham and Rocky Mount Farms. Most of the rookie survivors probably will wind up with Louisville or Little Rock next week.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla.—In Kirby Higbe's airtight pitching the Phillies can draw some consolation from yesterday's 10-0 loss to the Cincinnati's Reds. Higbe allowed only one hit and no runner passed second.

LOS ANGELES—Al Brancato, a product of South Philadelphia sand lots whom Connie Mack decided at the eleventh hour to take along to the training camp, is paying dividends at third base. He walloped a double to give the A's a temporary lead yesterday against the Chicago Cubs.

SARASOTA, Fla.—There wka a note of cheerfulness in the St. Louis Cardinals' camp today upon learning that holdout Joe Medwick was bound from St. Louis for a salary conference with Vice-President Branch Rickey.

ORLANDO, Fla., A report that Zeke Bonura would return to a Washington uniform spread through the Senators' camp today. Bonura was reported to have agreed to salary terms proposed by President Clark Griffith, leaving the deal hanging on an exchange of rookies which the New York Giants desire.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Bill Posedel and Lou Fette, the ranking members of the Boston Bees' pitching staff, have been assigned the thankless task of trying to stop the New York Yankees today. Meanwhile Eddie Onslow and Bob Coleman of the Hartford, Bradford and Evansville farms are waging a merry battle for several promising youngsters that Manager Casey Stengel must dispose of soon.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—The Pirates close their spring training camp today with a contest with the Chicago Cubs. Release of George Cyril Susce to the St. Louis Browns leaves Manager Frankie Frisch with only four catchers.

HAVANA—Coach Jimmy Wilson of the Cincinnati Reds, here for an exhibition series, says all Harry Craft needs to become a great player is a dash of temper. Jimmy says the center fielder was "at his peak" for two days last week—just after Luke Hamlin of the Dodgers tried to "rust him off" while he was batting.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—White Sox Manager Jimmy Dykes nominated three rookies to face Hollywood's Coast leaguers today. They are Ed Weiland, Ken Reid and Orval Grove. Jimmy seemed pleased over the showing of his freshmen, in spite of yesterday's shattering of their winning streak.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—They're going to unveil Vernon (Lefty) Gomez today. The Yankee left-hander will be making his entry to his 11th year of baseball. The Boston Bees will get the first chance to see him in action this year.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Dodgers got more bad news than good yesterday. Although Dolph Camilli, the errant first baseman, signed, the Flatbush gang bowed to the Yankees and lost the services of Shortstop and Manager Leo Durocher, who left for Johns Hopkins Hospital to see what's wrong with his ailing right arm.

Fenske Seeks Mark In Mile-Half Race

NEW YORK, March 21 (INS)—Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin's mile king, today elected to seek a new world record in the mile and a half race, rather than the three-quarter mile, at the track meet of champions in Madison Square Garden March 31.

Fenske will run against Walter Mehl of Wisconsin, Ralph Schwartzkopf of Michigan and Gene Venzke, former Penn star.

Hoppe Holds Lead In Billiard Tilt

Olympics Face Quebec Sextet

The Olympics tackle one of the strongest array of skaters the Quebec Senior League boasts when they play the Concordia Civics at the Garden, Saturday evening. A second Garden contest between the two is slated for Tuesday night.

The Civics coached by Sylvio Mantha, feature a bruising defense, and an air-tight goaler, Guy Francoeur and Marcel "Butcher Boy" Larochelle, the starting defense duo have shown here in Boston before, and their bruising tactics halted the local clubmen cold. Larochelle has spent over 100 minutes in the sin bin this winter. He is called the roughest player in Quebec.

In Lionel Bouvrette the Manthamen have the best netminder in Eastern Canada.

MIKE JACOBS TARGET OF NBA

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS)—Lieut.-Col. Harvey L. Miller, president of the National Boxing Ass'n, declared today that the NBA is "fed up with Mike Jacobs' boxing monopoly and has launched a fight to bust it."

"NBA officials generally have a high regard for Mike Jacobs, his ability and showmanship," Miller said. "However, the NBA feels that he lacks foresight and is killing the boxing goose that lays the golden eggs. He is doing this by monopolizing the services of leading boxers."

Miller reiterated his endorsement of the measure shortly to be introduced in Congress by Rep. Ambrose J. Kennedy (D.) of Maryland, calling for an investigation of boxing and placing the sport under a federal commission.

Assailing the New York boxing czar, the NBA head said:

"These well-known boxers are not developed by Jacobs. Only one of eight world champions is a New Yorker. The others come along in states other than New York but have to couple up with Jacobs to get titular chances. Long-term contracts tie them up so only New York gets to see them.

TO BUST MONOPOLY

"NBA people are fed up with this and are definitely embarked on a program of busting that monopoly. In this work every assistance will be accorded Rep. Kennedy and his coming investigation of boxing."

Miller said that, in perpetuating his monopoly, Jacobs is violating the boxing laws of New York state.

"Mike's not only hurting boxing, he's hurting himself and, what is most important, the boxing laws of New York prohibit a promoter from controlling a fighter and also prohibit a promoter from paying the fighter in advance.

INTEREST DYING

"Jacobs makes no bones about forbidding fighters like Garcia and Armstrong to box without his permission, and about stating that he 'bankrolls' boxers between bouts. Both procedures are violations of New York laws, rules and regulations."

Miller said boxing is a national and international sport and if all title fights take place in one state, interest will die in other states.

Y. M. H. A. Court Finals March 21

The annual championship basketball tournament of the Associated Y. M. H. A.'s of New England will be held at the Boston Y. M. H. A. gym on the afternoon and evening of Sunday, March 31.

Four teams, Boston, Providence, Fall River and Bridgeport, will go into the semi-finals in the afternoon games, and in the evening the losers will play a consolation game while the winners play for top honors.

As a result of the drawings held by the athletic committee of the Associated "Y's," Boston and Providence are paired to open the tourney at 3:00 p. m., while Fall River and Bridgeport will battle it for the chance to go into the finals in the evening session.
